Atlantic Brings Ag and Business Leaders Together

BY PAT PURCELL

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin) — The Atlantic Dairy Cooperative members invited agribusiness people from across the Commonwealth to learn more about the dairy industry's impact on local, state and national economies at a luncheon held in Harrisburg on Tuesday.

Pennsylvania farms generate well over $3 billion dollars in production each year and nearly 20 percent of the labor force is employed in agriculture and food related businesses. Agriculture is the number one industry in Pennsylvania. The dairy industry, making up the largest segment of Pennsylvania's agriculture, does have a great impact on the state's financial health.

According to a recent report from the American Dairy Association, "Pennsylvania is currently the fifth largest dairy production state in the U.S., producing over seven percent of the national milk supply. During 1987, Pennsylvania's 13,700 dairy farms produced more than 10 billion pounds of milk. Leading dairy economists predict Pennsylvania may rise to fourth place, overtaking Minneso-

PSU Lawn Research Favors Agriculture

STATE COLLEGE (Centre) — Here at Penn State University, the run-off basins at the site of the original government research project for soil erosion has been renovated into a modern facility to test chemical and nitrate leaching. And what Dr. Tom Watschke and his colleagues have found over the last three years provides significant rebuttal to the general accusations aimed by environmentalists at non-point source pollution of water resources by agriculture.

Speaking to the University's advisory council Wednesday, Watschke said that the first and most important thing they have learned is that turf in contrast to pasture land reacts much differently to the applications of chemicals and fertilizers. In tests, the sodded areas on up to 14 degree slopes received nutrients or chemicals and were irrigated with six inches of water in an hour. But only rarely did they find contaminants in the run-off to exceed the public drinking water standards of 10 parts per million.

When the public sees a heavy rain on lawns, they think they have a lot of chemical and nitrate run-off from the lawns onto the sidewalks and streets. But Watschke's tests indicate the applications stay where they are put.

"In sixty-five percent of our samples, pesticides are not detectable and herbicides have never been detected," Watschke said.

Welcome to the Olde Fogie Farm. Tom and Biz Fogie share their Marietta farm with tourists across the country. "We have a Ma and Pa Kettle operation here," Biz said. "I think that is what city folks like about our place. For them, gathering a basket of eggs is better than an Easter egg hunt."

Biz (above) and grandson Willie, 5, said folks enjoy riding Amos, the Amish horse, petting a pig and milking a goat.

German Farmers Visit Lancaster County

BY
EVERETT NEWSWANGER

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster)—About 30 farmers from northern Germany visited here this week and received a correction of their impressions of American farms in the process. Hosted by the Lancaster County Farmers' Association, the bus group stopped at the Delmar Weaver family farm south of New Holland over lunch to learn how local farmers live and conduct their operations. Before the stop at the Weaver farm, the group visited an Amish farm at White Horse and later visited the Ford New Holland plant.

Dr. F. G. Myers Zu Erbe, president of the West German Farmers' Association, said the group was pleased to visit with colleagues in the US. "We have seen very clean farms," Myers said. "The grass is cut. The houses painted. We are very interested to see."

Myers said the newspapers and TV bring them pictures of American farms but always the big farms or what he called "management farms." But he said they were impressed with the family farms that were much like those in Germany.

Dr. Reinhold Wenrlaff Zlofif, an ag professor and advisor to 2000 farmers, said that in Ger-

$100-A-Plate Banquet Builds Poultry Industry

BY LOU ANN GOOD

HERSHEY (Dauphin) — It was a good time at the Hershey Convention Center on Thursday night. The Pennsylvania Poultry Federation raised funds with their $100-a-plate banquet.

Janie Frickie, Country Music Association's female vocalist of the year, and Andy Andrews, popular comedian, entertained the crowd of 1,800.

Frickie presented a variety of sounds from a MacDonalds jingle to two new "country" songs from her soon-to-be released album.

The audience laughed along with Andrews when he queried, "Why is the chicken the only animal we can eat before it is born and after it is dead?"

His comedy has twice earned him "Comedian of the Year" by the National Association of Campus Activities and he's appeared with many top comedians and at the White House.

According to Bill Schlotterbeck, chairman of the Federation, the annual banquet proceeds build a stronger poultry industry by accomplishing the following:

•saves three million dollars annually on Workers Compensation.

Penn State Annual Award Winners

By Marianne Walker
Centre Co. Correspondent

UNIVERSITY PARK, Centre — "If you think we have had a lot of changes in the past 40 years, I want you to take a look at the next 20." This was the declaration of Donald Seipt, Distinguished Alumnus of the 64th Penn State Dairy Exposition held April 22 at University Park.

Seipt addressed those attending the Dairy Science Club's Annual Awards Banquet which honors winners of the Annual Dairy Judging Contest, the Annual Dairy Fitting and Showing Contest, and the Dairy Princess Contest.

Past advances in the dairy industry noted by Seipt included the general acceptance of artificial insemination, the use of calf hutches, and embryo transfer. The upcoming 20 years, he sees as truly exciting, with advances such as gene splicing coming into practice.

A 1950 Dairy Science graduate, Seipt is the owner of Keystone Farms where he has produced 152 cows with over 100,000 pounds of milk lifetime and 24 cows with

Butterfat Surplus Likely To Trigger Support Price Cut

By Karl Berger
Special Correspondent

EPHRATA — Current supply-demand trends have set the dairy industry on a collision course with another 50-cent support price cut on Jan. 1, 1990, according to industry observers.

"If we have a normal growing year, the general industry assumption is that the price cut is going to occur," Jim Fraher, an economist for Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, noted in a recent summary of industry conditions.

The cut, the last of three called for by the 1985 farm bill, will be imposed if the U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates the government will purchase more than 5 billion pounds of surplus dairy products in 1990. Current projections for both 1989 and 1990 forsee surplus purchases totalling 7-9 billion pounds, well above the trigger level.

ACRES CORN UPDATE: Corn futures prices recovered today and closed from 1 to 1-3/4 cents higher on buying linked to short covering in response to oversold conditions. Further support was attributed to steady basis levels along with ideas that the Soviet Union would soon return to the market place. Mexico is scheduled to tender tonight for 120,000 metric tonnes. Prices were held in check by continued forecasts for increased rainfall during the next week with December settling today at $2.61-1/4, up 1 cent. Generic certificate bids firmed this morning by 1/2%.

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybean futures prices recovered today and ended the session from 2-1/4 to 8 cents higher on buying linked to news that the Soviet Union was in the market for soyo il. Old crop ended the session 8 cents higher on reports that dockworkers would be on strike for an "indefinite" period. Further support was tied to light farmer sales. Large gains were pared by forecasts for continued rainfall over the next week. May settled today up 8 cents at $7.40-1/2 while November closed 3 cents higher at $7.10-1/2.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat futures closed from 1-1/2 lower on the July and December options to 3-1/2 lower on the spot option. Selling initially was attributed to news that Egypt's second bid for export bonus had been rejected. Further pressure was attributed to growing doubts that the USSR would be in a position to purchase in the near future. Reports prior to the opening that the hard red wheat condition was worse than expected underpinned. The weather patterns are still causing some confusion along with ideas that the U.S. may scale back its export bonus offerings.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE: Live and feeder cattle closed mixed with live cattle closing from 5 lower to 5 higher and feeders from 33 lower to 5 higher. Prices opened higher this morning on cash connected short covering attributed to Tuesday's higher cut out values along with ideas the

Wednesday, April 26, 1989

Prices were sharply higher when compared to prior week. Trade sentiment was unsettled. Offers from producers were light and scattered. Buyers were very cautious and reluctant to book flocks beyond next week. Processors operated all week but on less than full schedules. Demand for canner pack product was no better than fair as buyers resisted current prices and bought for immediate needs only.

Prices were unchanged to higher on all but salted yolks which were unchanged. Demand was mixed, best for whole egg and whites, and most sales continued in small lots. National Egg Market

Wednesday, April 26, 1989

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE: The market tone was about steady. Cartoned egg demand was irregular from point to point but for the most part was moderate. Movement was best where retail promotional activity was either planned or in progress. Supplies were also in a mixed position. However, most dealers had sufficient quantities to satisfy buyers needs and where short were usually able to obtain needed product. Breakers limited purchases and in some instances prices were lower. The undertone was only steady at best.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, April 26, 1989

Trucklot buying interest was fair to good on most items. Cutlets were in light supply and sellers easily cleared stocks at higher trending levels. Whole breasts, both line run and rib-on were in close balance, particularly white product, and some boners reported shifting or increasing receipts of whole birds, wogs and front halves. Legs remained in irregular distribution while leg quarters moved handily at higher prices. Wings were in heaviest supply and slow in clearing at lower trending levels.

TODAY'S NEGOTIATED SALES AS OF 11:30 A.M., PRICES PAID PER POUND ON ICE PACKED PARTS DELIVERED IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES:

UNITED STATES: THE UNSEASONABLE HOT WEATHER IN THE WEST SPREAD INTO THE CENTRAL PORTIONS OF THE NATION TOWARD THE END OF THE WEEK APRIL 16-22. SHOWERS AND THUNDERSTORMS BROUGHT SCATTERED RAIN ACROSS THE SOUTHERN PLAINS, GULF AND ATLANTIC COAST STATES, EASTERN CORN BELT AND PACIFIC NORTHWEST. DRY CONDITIONS AGAIN PREVAILED IN THE NORTHERN AND CENTRAL PLAINS AND WESTERN CORN BELT, ALTHOUGH BENEFICIAL RAINS FELL OVER EASTERN IOWA AND NORTHWESTERN ILLINOIS AT WEEK'S END. WESTERN USSR: CONTINUED UNSEASONABLE WARM WEATHER ACCELERATES WINTER GRAIN GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT. BENEFICIAL SHOWERS COVER MOST OF THE REGION.

EASTERN ASIA: HEAVY SEASONAL RAINS AND SOME FLOODING CONTINUE ACROSS MUCH OF THE YANGTZE VALLEY. LIGHT TO MODERATE RAIN BENEFITS WINTER GRAINS IN THE NORTH CHINA PLAIN. SOUTHEAST ASIA: DRIER WEATHER COVERS MOST REGIONS. HOT WEATHER CONTINUES OVER NORTHEASTERN THAILAND. SOUTH AMERICA: IN ARGENTINA, EARLY-WEEK SHOWERS SLOW NORTHERN COTTON HARVEST, BUT MOSTLY DRY WEATHER IN PRIMARY CORN AREAS FAVORS HARVEST. IN SOUTH-CENTRAL BRAZIL, SCATTERED SHOWERS CAUSE SOME DELAYS, BUT OVERALL SOYBEAN HARVEST ADVANCES.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

MAY 1-7, 1989

Rain on Phillips & James; fertile year.

May 1 is Mayday, the chimneysweepers' holiday in London, and the festival of St. Phillips and St. James Minor (the Less or the Just), Apostles . . . May 3, 1903, Ladies Home Journal advises ladies to put gloves in their laps, not in their wineglasses . Average length of days for the week 14 hours 11 minutes . . Johnny Unitas, football player, born May 7, 1933 . . . First catch your hare, then cook it.

Ask the Old Farmer: You being of New England stock, perhaps you can explain the source of a New Englander's mysterious pride. J. J., W. Va.

We were first in successful colonizing, first in industry ashore and afloat, first in exploration and adventure, first in war, and first in patching things up. Give us some credit!

Home Hints: Steep spring violets in boiling water for a refreshing tea

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Heavy rain and cold to start Mayday week; more sprinkles and seasonable; then cold but sunny. A soggy Maypole dance!

Greater New York-New Jersey: Intermittent rain and cold require Maypole dancers to be bold; then better news, with sunny and warm reviews.

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Clear and cold; rain is scattered in the east; warm weather follows; ending the week with a cold wave and rainstorms.

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Clearing and a very cold to start the month of May; rain in the north and sunny in the south, they say; cold snap, rain.

ATTENTION TOBACCO GROWERS
Golden Leaf Tobacco Company Would Like To Encourage You To Increase 609 Tobacco Production In 1989.
We have increased our orders for your tobacco over the past several years and could have purchased 1 million pounds more had it been available in 1988. Surplus government stock has been depleted and US grown tobacco inventory is at its lowest level in years.
Our goal has been to establish a strong market for Pennsylvania 609 by personally visiting manufacturers overseas and here in the US. Our goal has been met!
The outlook is good for 1989 as more US grown tobacco is needed for cigarette production both in the US and overseas.
It is our desire to continue to work closely with each of you. We are daily continuing our efforts to build the 609 tobacco demand into a lasting market that will carry into the future. Our company prides itself on a relationship with the farmers based on honesty, integrity and loyalty. If we can be of service to you please feel free to call.

OPINION

More Than A Blue Ribbon

Though there are many kids here in the country who get a real high showing their cattle and domestic prowess at fairs, there are others who get theirs smoking grass and sniffing other addictive drugs.

Today, 28% Of Our Small Town Kids Are Into Big Town Drugs

It's true. Drugs have become as big a problem here as they are in larger cities. Today, some 28% of our kids are using drugs like marijuana, crack and cocaine. To most of them, it's no big deal. They get it from their friends and use it wherever they are . . . a cornfield, a washroom, a football game.

When it comes to drugs, no kid or town — no matter how big or how small — is immune. That's why you need to have an honest conversation with your kids about drugs. Without confrontation. Without yelling. Talking is the only way to get answers. And to give information.

Remember, if you can create an environment where your kids can tell you anything — they've gotten more than a blue ribbon.

To Prepare For Soybean Planting

Soybeans should be planted in warm moist soil. A thermometer will help you decide when is the best planting date. Special bayonet type thermometers work very well.

The ideal temperature is about 62°F. The reading should be taken at about 8:00 a.m. when the soil temperature is stabilized. The thermometer should be inserted at least two inches in the soil.

Many people planting soybeans will either end up with too many plants per acre or too few. This will happen because they will use the pounds per acre philosophy which won't work for soybeans. Because soybean seed differs greatly in size, this also means they differ greatly in number of seeds per pound. For example, one variety may average 2,100 seeds per pound while another variety averages 3,100 seeds per pound...that's a difference of 1,000 seeds per pound. So, if you plant a bushel of seed with 85% germination, that's a difference of about 48,000 plants per acre.

The only way to plant beans is by seeds per foot or row. If a grain drill is used, three beans per foot of row is plenty. If a 30-inch corn row is used, 8 to 9 beans per foot is about right.

To Be Careful With Weed Sprayers

Farmers and gardeners should keep in mind that many weed killer materials will stick in the equipment for years. This is especially true of all forms of 2,4-D. Sprayers in which this material has been used should be kept only for weed spraying, or be very carefully cleaned. The use of very hot water and household ammonia (1 part of ammonia to 100 parts of hot water) is suggested; this mixture should be allowed to stand for 24 hours in the equipment and then sprayed out. Extreme care should be taken with this cleaning job after each herbicide treatment.

The safest method is to have separate sprayers for weed killers. Over the years I can recall a number of tobacco and vegetable plants that have been damaged because a sprinkling can or sprayer used last fall was not thoroughly cleaned.

To Check Farm Ponds

Many ponds are showing both algae and weed infestation build-up and as the weather warms up, these pond plants will begin to grow. Permits are needed in order to use the proper material, and to protect livestock downstream from the pond. Before any ponds are treated in Pennsylvania with any chemical or fertilizer, the owner should obtain a permit from the Pennsylvania Fish Commission. Application for the permit is available from the Pennsylvania Waterway Patrol Office or from our Penn State Cooperative Extension Office.

To Help Prevent Damping-Off Of Seedlings

Damping-off of seedlings is a common concern of plant growers. It may start with a single seedling and move rapidly through the flats or bed. Growers can prevent losses from damping-off by following good control or preventive practices. Good damping-off prevention practices include the use of clean or treated seed, sterilized soil or disease-free plant media, clean containers, water and tools.

Watering plants in the morning when the temperature is rising will provide good drying conditions and also aids in preventing losses from those disease organisms that may be in the soil.

The Penn State Cooperative Extension is an affirmative action, equal opportunity educational institution.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE MYSTERY OF GOD'S WILL

April 30, 1989

Background Scripture: Ephesians 1: 1-14.
Devotional Reading: Romans 8:26-29.

Proponents of "The Big Bang Theory" of the origin of the universe believe that the cosmos is still expanding from that first big bang of creation, the outer limits of the universe speeding away form us at an astronomical speed. It is as if the universe is coming apart, disintegrating.

Whether or not "The Big Bang Theory" is accurate, many people also see much the same thing happening to our human society. Technology, ideology, nationalism and other forces seem to be constantly pulling our world further and further apart. Society, like the universe, appears to be disintegrating. Lots of things that used to seem to hold it together no longer seem effective or even viable any more. The family, the church, the neighborhood, the local school—none of these seem to stop the process of disintegration.

THE PLAN REVEALED

This is hardly a new or novel concern. People have been worrying about the disintegration of society for almost as long as there has been a society. Many times when people have assumed that society was finished, we have discovered that in the pattern of dissipation there is also the seeds of some new cohesion. When the Jews were carried into the Babylonian captivity, they thought their society was doomed, But, in Babylon, they founded some new institutions — including the synagogue — that became the basis for an even stronger Israel than before.

In Ephesians, Paul sets forth a different view of the world. Regardless of what the world may be doing astronomically, it is not "coming apart" because God has created it with a plan and purpose that is totally different from that. People have long wondered what is God's intention for his great creation, and, according to Paul, in Christ the mystery of God's will has been revealed once and for all. "For he has made known to us in all wisdom and insight the mystery of his will, according to his purpose which he set forth in Christ as a plan for the fullness of time..." (1:9,10).

TO UNITE ALL THINGS

On the micro-personal scale we interpret God's will as a plan to save us as persons: "in him we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of our trespasses, according to the riches of his grace..." (1:7). On the macro-universal scale, however, we see God's redemptive love working on a higher, more comprehensive level: "to unite all things in him, things in heaven and things on earth" (1:10). The mystery of God's will is no longer a mystery, for it is obvious that just as through Christ he unites us to himself, so his intention is to unite everything in his love and grace.

pits had become oversold. Feeders traded higher on spillover from live cattle. Prices began to slide midsession on reports of weakening carcass values and a lack of market direction. Ideas of more than adequate supplies pressured along with lower fed cattle values at direct markets. June live cattle settled unchanged at $70.52.

CME FEEDER CATTLE SETTLEMENT PRICE - 4/24/89 - $75.65 dn $ .06.

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: CASH - steady to weak FUTURES - steady to mixed.

ACRES HOG UPDATE: Live hog futures closed mixed this afternoon with bellies settling sharply higher. Today's mixed close saw the spot option gaining 17 points while the July lost 3. Support early in the day was linked to firmer cash market fundamentals coupled with short covering. Optimism that marketings would soon began their annual drop offered further support. Ideas that the pit had become oversold during the last several sessions prompted buying in bellies. Further support was linked to firmer fresh belly prices midday.

You don't have the proper coverage.

You will be fined!

You will pay the employee's medical bills.

You will pay the employee's lost wages.

Medical costs and lost wages could go on for a lifetime.

The financial burden could destroy your farm.

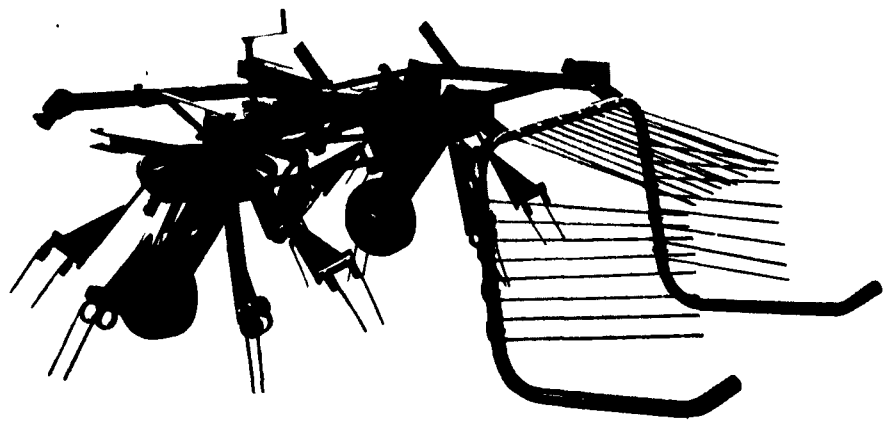
GRIMM
Hay Tedders



When it comes to drying hay this versatile machine does it all. With the basket in the raised position it functions as a standard tedder. The hay is lifted, spread and fluffed up for maximum air and light penetration, reducing drying time by up to 50%. With the basket in the lowered position the operator can rake loose hay into windrows and fluff up damp windrows to speed drydown and eliminate raking.

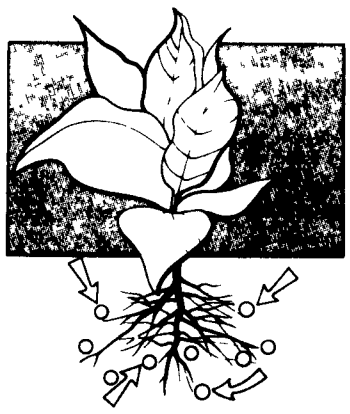
Ridomil® in the soil



For More Effective Control

Ridomil controls blue mold and black shank in your tobacco. But for Ridomil to do its best work, it should be applied to the soil before transplanting.

Ridomil destroys diseases present in the soil. Then it is absorbed by the roots and moved systemically throughout the plant to protect your tobacco as it grows.

For the best two-way action against blue mold and black shank, follow your label directions—use Ridomil in the soil

Farm Essentials.

Cows. Crops. And a Scavenger® spreader. The three essentials for higher productivity and a more successful farm operation.

Manure is money.
According to ag experts at the University of Missouri, the average dairy cow produces 70 pounds of manure every day—up to 13 tons a year. Worth about $5.00/ton, that equates to $65.00 per cow a year. If you own a 60-head herd that's almost $4,000 of free fertilizer. And in today's farm environment that adds up to big savings.

Scavenger—good to your crops, good to you.
To get the most from your manure you need a spreader to efficiently manage manure. A spreader that works with you. A spreader designed and built for today's farming. You need a Scavenger.

Scavenger loads quickly and spreads fast. And thanks to advanced engineering, Scavenger spreads all kinds of manure—liquid, semi-solid, pen pack (even frozen)—all year 'round. But more importantly, Scavenger's patented moveable square-auger and Variflo discharge combine to let you choose your optimum rate of application—from top dressing to heavy springtime spreading. You get the kind of spreads your crops need—nice and even, without damaging "hotspots". With Scavenger, your crops receive the essential nutrients to produce better yields.

See Scavenger for yourself.
Don't be misled by claims of other manufacturer's spreaders that say they do it all. See Scavenger for yourself and compare actual capabilities. We think you'll find your choice obvious—you'll choose Scavenger®.

For a firsthand look at Scavenger, see your local Hedlund/Martin dealer. Or for more information write: Hedlund/Martin, Inc., A Gehl Company, 741 Kutztown Road, Myerstown, PA 17067. Telephone: 717-933-4151 over 200,000 pounds of milk lifetime. A member of the All-American Panel of Judges for 13 years, he has judged shows in 18 states and several foreign countries. Quoting from Reader's Digest, Scipt said, "Strong oats grow in contrary winds and diamonds grow under pressure," pointing out to the young people in the audience the demands with which they must deal in the dairy industry's future.

DAIRY SCIENCE CLUB ANNUAL AWARDS

Young Dairyman Award

A young man who is certainly meeting today's dairy industry demands is William Lesher, the Dairy Science Club's 1989 Young Dairyman. Lesher is a 1988 Ag Science graduate. Upon graduating, Lesher returned to his family's farm and jugging operation where total sales reached $500,000 over the past year. Since his return to the farm, milk sales have tripled while feed costs have not increased. Bill plans to marry Laura Long, also a Dairy Science Club alumnus, in the near future.

64th Dairy Exposition Dedicatee

Each year the Dairy Science Club dedicates the Dairy Exposition to an outstanding Pennsylvania dairyman. This year's dedicatee is Dale Olver, a progeny analyst with the Atlantic Breeders Cooperative. This summer, Olver will leave the cooperative to join the faculty at Penn State where he will be working with judging teams and the state 4-H programs.

Olver is a native of Honesdale. He was president and vice president of the Dairy Science Club at Penn State. After graduating in 1979, he went on to earn an impressive judging and coaching record at the state and national levels. He has been president and vice president of the Penn State Dairymen's Club, advisor to the Pennnsylvania Junior Holstein Association, and was selected as the first recipient of the Penn State Young Dairyman Award in 1985.

many farmers are faced with many of the same pollution and manure problems as here. Certain areas may have only 4.5 cows per two hectors and in other areas only 2 cows or 15 pigs. "That's not very many, and we have a lot of trouble with that," Wenrlaff said.

As the ag population decreases, its influence also decreases, and many of the restrictive laws come from people outside of Agriculture. The Green Party advocates pollution control, but Wenrlaff says farmers also know they have a problem and Green Party or no, if the water isn't OK, you must solve the problems.

Gordon Hoover, president, said this was the second group to come to local farms in as many years. Contact was made with the farmers' association through the German embassy in Washington DC.

Only Farm Credit Has Loan Officers Who Were Trained In The Field.

While you were growing up on the farm going to 4-H, FFA, maybe even AG school, do you know what your Farm Credit loan officer was doing?

Same thing.

Not many bankers can say that.

True, they can make loans nine ways to Sunday. But, now your Farm Credit loan officer can, too. Over the last few years our people have gone through extensive training at making every kind of farm loan imaginable. Now a Farm Credit loan officer can give you the lowdown on rates, options and creative financing as well as any city banker can.

And around here, our Farm Credit loan officers have the power of approval that's equal to most bank presidents.

So the next time you need to get a farm loan, think about this for just a moment.

Then let one of our Farm Credit loan officers prove to you what we've been saying all along. That bankers can't be farmers. But farmers can be bankers.

Farmers Are The Same The World Around

BY LISA RISSER

LANCASTER — For those who think waiting a couple of days or even a couple of hours to fix a broken tractor or implement is too long, Jay Irwin has got news for you: that's nothing!

While in Zimbabwe, Africa, the Lancaster County Extension head agent learned that farmers there wait six to eight months just for a part.

Irwin and his wife, Betty, travelled to Zimbabwe as the second part of an exchange program between Penn State's International Program and Zimbabwe's Commercial Farmers Union. Last summer two Zimbabwe farm couples visited Pennsylvania, where they were hosted by farm families in Washington, Huntington, and Lancaster counties.

After their two-week visit in Zimbabe, the Irwins were off to Swaziland for two weeks to observe the Penn State cropping systems research and extension training project there.

A lack of equipment parts is not the main difference between farming in the United States and in Zimbabwe. "It's a very labor-intensive country," Irwin said. "They don't plan labor savings because they need to employ people. A farmer growing cotton wouldn't use a cotton picker; he'd hire people to harvest it by hand."

Since 1925, when Zimbabwe was called Rhodesia, the population has grown from 250,000 to 9.25 million. This means a lot of people who need employment. And the government ensures people will be employed. For instance, a company wishing to expand had drawings made for the new plant. The resulting drawings called for construction of a computerized facility that would require only eight workers. By the time the government was through approving the new building, it had been modified so that 463 people were needed to run it.

The farmers are required to house workers and supply medical care and schooling. "Hopefully they get enough from their crop to be able to afford to do this," Irwin commented.

Zimbabwe's climate is conducive to growing pineapples, bananas, cotton, tobacco, coffee, tea, corn, wheat, soybeans, and other fruits and vegetables. For Zimbabweans, tomatoes and cucumbers are a winter crop.

Conservation important

Farmers there have much the same environmental concerns as American farmers. "They're very conscious of conservation," observed Irwin. "They're putting more effort on soil conservation."

Zimbabweans are beginning to employ terraces and contouring, especially on coffee and tea farms. Like their American counterparts, they use pesticides and fertilizer, although their fertilizer usage is higher as they have fewer animals than Pennsylvanians.

Each farm has its own flock of chickens to supply eggs for the family and employees. Some beef cattle are raised as well.

In addition to commercial farms, Zimbabwe has communal, state-owned farms. "They are divided so that each family has two hectacres on which they grow cotton and corn, which they call maize," said Irwin. "The corn, which is halfway between our field and sweet corn, is eaten by the family. Cotton is their cash crop."

Despite the differences between the two countries, what is most important is that the people are the same. "They were very surprised that people in the United States were nice," explained Irwin. "What they see in the news is a different picture of us. To me it is sad that the news media is leaving a bad impression of our country. And some tourists are arrogant and leave a bad impression.

"This is why I think this type of exchange is important. We need to meet people at the people level, not the administration level. We need a sharing of ideas."

Swaziland

On the second half of his trip, Irwin was most impressed with the 4-S clubs, which are the Swaziland equivalent to 4-H.

"I wanted to visit these kids to try and show them that we cared," he said.

The extension agent went to five different schools and met with 598 4-S'ers, who he taught the 4-H pledge, which he considers to be international.

"I asked them if they wanted to visit the United States, and they all raised their hands high," he chuckled. "Then I asked them what they most wanted. And, without any kind of planning between the schools, they all wanted a soccer ball.

"Four-H has always been important to me and to Lancaster County. I wanted to do something for these clubs. I wanted to prove that somebody will fulfill a dream for them."

So Irwin, knowing the Lancaster County 4-H'ers would sponsor the gift of a soccer ball to each club, purchased the balls and gave them to the clubs.

"It was heartwarming: the effort they put out. Here we were, just a couple of people giving them something. But to them it was someone giving them the moon," he related.

Each school prepared a festive ceremony complete with food and drink and about 20 minutes of native dancing. For these schools, it was the first time an American had visited them.

Irwin reviewed each school's 4-H projects, which were mostly handiwork and raising vegetables. One 4-S'er admitted that now that the club had a soccer ball, its next need was for gardening tools.

Encouraged by the friendliness and enthusiasm of the 4-S'ers, Irwin is beginning to fill with ideas on involving Lancaster County 4-H'ers with the 4-S'ers. One project he'd like to initiate is a pen-pal program.

The four weeks Irwin spent in Africa are weeks that he'll always treasure not only for the beautiful scenery and interesting farm operations. But also for the people. "We've made some lasting friendships," he said proudly.

PFU Takes Stand On Hormone Use In Dairy Cows

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Farmers Union has announced their opposition to any laws permitting the use of bovine growth hormones in dairy cows.

William Sturges, executive director for the organization stated, "Bovine Growth Hormones need to be investigated further and the Pennsylvaqnia Farmers Union will take an active role in legislation toward that goal."

PFU President Allen Deiter added, "People need to have faith in the products they consume. We want milk to remain a wholesome product."

"Our family dairy farmers throughout Pennsylvania can now guarantee their product to the consumer. If the use of bovine growth hormones is accepted, this guarantee will be in jeopardy," said Jack Rynd, chairman of Pennsylvania Farmers Union's Dairy Committee.

Executive Director Sturges added, "Our concern is not only for the producer but the consumer as well. With recent questions arising over the purity of various foods now is not the time to tamper with our milk production."

The Pennsylvania Farmers Union is dedicated to preserving the Family Farm.

Dairymen Plan For Select SIres Future Genetic Pacesetters

PLAIN CITY, OH — Key dairymen from the 12 member organizations of Select Sires, Inc. met March 7-9, 1989 in Columbus, Ohio to plan for Select's future genetic pacesetters.

As members of the Select Sires Holstein Sire Committee, progressive dairymen met with Select's Dairy Sire Department and discussed objectives of the Program for Genetic Advancement (PGA). With the use of their "hands-on" experience with dairy cattle, the sire committee offered guidelines for future young sire sampling procedures. These dairymen took part in developing new and innovative matings that will affect all dairymen in the next decade.

During their annual committee meetings, all breed committeemen also met jointly to discuss topics that affect all dairy breeds.

Resource dairy extension personnel attending the joint meeting were Dr. A. E. Freeman, Iowa State University, Dr. Roger Shanks, University of Illinois and Dr. Ron Pearson, VPI & SU. These extension specialists exposed the committeemen to new developments in genetic research and how it will affect future generations. Dr. Freeman reviewed the non-conventional breeding schemes of MOET (Multiple Ovulation Embryo Transfer) and Mitochardrial (Non-Nuclear) Inheritance. Dr. Shanks presented the research data on DUMPS and Dr. Pearson reviewed the effect of changing TPI's on genetic progress.

Unfortunately, Dr. C. R. Henderson, University of Illinois, was unable to attend due to illness. However, Dr. Shanks presented his notes. Shanks pointed out the early development of the Animal Model by Henderson in 1949 and reviewed the evolutionary process of the sire summaries.

PFA Asks For Apology

CAMP HILL (Cumberland) — The leader of a statewide farm organization has called on state Senate President Pro Tempore Robert Jubelirer to apologize to the 60,000 families who received a fundraising letter attacking local tax reform and its supporters.

Keith Eckel, president of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA), said his organization found the April 11th letter, "...repulsive in the manner that it branded our 23,000-plus family members as 'liberal extremists' just because we support an equitable approach to taxation."

In a letter to the senator, Eckel said, "It seems totally ridiculous to us that because we want a fair tax system, you label us as extremists."

Noting that Sen. Jubelirer repudiated the controversial letter in a newspaper interview last week, Eckel said, "Repudiation is not enough ... A letter of apology to those 60,000 people should be your first order of business."

PFA is a voluntary, general farm organization representing over 23,000 farm families in 54 county associations.

Dairy Promotion Plan Given Approval

NEW YORK — A plan whereby dairy farmers contribute money for milk promotion activities of the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc., headquartered in Syracuse, New York, was approved today for another year by Thomas A. Wilson, Market Administrator, New York-New Jersey Milk Marketing Area. These milk promotion activities include advertising, nutrition education, publicity for dairy products, marketing and product research, and informational services.

This year the deduction under the "positive letter" will again be applied as a credit against the 15 cents per hundredweight dairy promotion deduction required by the Dairy and Tobacco Adjustment Act of 1983. Up to 10 cents designated by producers for an approved local promotion program such as that of the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. is eligible as an offset to this mandatory 15-cent deduction.

Mr. Wilson said that today's action allows handlers regulated by the marketing orders to send "positive letters" to their dairy-farmer suppliers. A dairy farmer who receives a letter will be considered to approve, for one year, deductions of 10 cents per hundredweight from his monthly milk checks, unless he notifies his handler in writing that no deduction should be made. Producers in New Jersey and New York are not subject to this program because statutes require deductions in those states.

Moneys deducted from payments for milk delivered on or after May 1, 1989 will be paid directly by the handler to the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc., Syracuse, New York.

The Market Administrator explained that participation in the local program is voluntary for both handlers and producers, and a participating producer may have deductions stopped at any time by notifying the handler. A producer who receives no letter need not contact his handler since no deduction will be made for the local program.

In approving the plan for the coming year, Mr. Wilson pointed out that there has been no substantial opposition by producers to the use of the positive letter procedure.

Use of the positive letter approach was requested by Dairylea Cooperative Inc., and Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association, Inc.

PSU Lawn Research

"We feel confident that the fear of run-off of nutrients and pesticides applied to turf, at least in our situation, is unfounded."

Watschke also sighted Vermont studies on farm land that showed septic systems on the land, cracked well casings and heavy manure applications at the well heads to be a far greater source of water pollution than chemicals and fertilizers.

UNIVERSITY FUNDING

The PSU Advisory Council is made up of representatives of leading farm organizations and agribusiness. In their business meeting they voted to support the university's efforts to get the state legislature to increase funds for the college of agriculture. The council passed a motion to increase the college of agriculture appropriations from four percent to seven percent in House Bill 466.

"If we don't get funds," Dean Lamartine Hood said, "We will be sitting on an eroding funding base. That's not appropriate for the major industry in the state. Ag research and extension must be talked about together. We're serving every citizen in Pennsylvania. Our turf grass run-off research shows this."

In an effort to give legislators a first-hand look at PSU's programs, both the state ag committee and the state appropriations committee have been invited on campus next week. Council members were lamenting the fact that to date, no appropriations committee member had accepted the invitation.

In addition, the the business meeting and the visit to the water quality research facility, council members visited the soil microbiology lab and the dairy production research center.

SOIL LAB

In the soil lab, Dr. Jean-Marc Bollog reported on the biotechnical research on bacteria functions in the soil and the potential to engineer bacteria which have specific capabilities to degrade specific pesticides in the soil.

"These types of bacteria are not far from reality," Ballog said. "We have the potential to break down biologically these pesticides in the soil. This can have a great impact on ground water situations."

DAIRY CENTER

Since Pennsylvania still has three million acres of pasture and 50 percent of the dairymen still graze their cattle for part of their forage needs, Dr. Larry Muller, of the dairy science department, and Dr. Steve Fales, of the ag engineering department, discussed their research on intensive rotational grazing.

This grazing method divides pasture into small segments with portable electrical wire installations and concentrates grazing in the small enclosures while the remainder of the pasture has an opportunity for regrowth.

Muller said more than 1000 dairymen, many in areas where row cropping is more difficult, have initiated some form of this system. What the researchers at PSU want to find out is when is the best time to turn cows out in the spring, how close the land should be grazed to maximize the nutrient intake of the cow and how long the grass will be productive.

Fales said they have identified at least 22 grass varieties from around the world that may make better pasture than the present varieties grown on Pennsylvania's meadows. Fales said they want to put grassland management into the dairy farm computer simulation model which looks at the technological alternatives and the management alternatives in terms of dollars and cents for farmers.

The speakers at the noon luncheon were Rebecca Sonnen and Ross Pifer, the 1989 Guldin student speaking contest winners. Also, Robert Jones, who represented the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts for 30 years, announced his retirement and was given the customary model Penn State Nittany Lion in appreciation for his service.

Penn State University Ag Council Members hear professor Jean-Marc Bollag discuss soil microbiology.

The Minnesota-Wisconsin Price Series (M-W)

Most of our readers know how important the M-W is to farm milk prices throughout the United States. It reflects prices actually paid for Grade B milk in Minnesota and Wisconsin, and serves as the basic price for milk that is regulated under all the federal milk marketing orders across the country. These orders account for about 80 percent of all Grade A, and 70 of all milk produced in the U.S.

The M-W was at $11.18 in January 1988 (3.67 butterfat basis), 58 cents above the support price. By June the M-W had fallen to $10.61, just one cent above the support price. (Remember, the support price went from $11.10 to $10.60 on January 1, 1988.) Then, during the period July through December the M-W rose to $12.54, an increase of $1.93, and stood $1.94 above the support price. By March 1989 the M-W fell to $11.25, a reduction of $1.29 from its December high. This was just 65 cents above the March support price (then still at $10.60).

For the months of April, May, and June the support price will be raised to $11.10, only 15 cents below the March M-W. These three spring months are normally ones of highest seasonal production and lowest seasonal prices. Furthermore, buyers of butter, powder, and cheese, anticipating a return to lower support prices in July, may choose to limit purchases of such products to current operating needs, rather than risk holding inventories whose values are likely to decline with the decline in the support price. Thus, we can probably expect the M-W to be at or near the $11.10 level for most of the next three months.

CCC Purchase Prices

Because uncommitted CCC inventories are now composed almost exclusively of butter, all the 50-cent increase in the support price for April through June has been assigned to powder. Thus powder prices will rise from 72.75 cents to 70 cents per pound, while CCC purchase prices for butter will remain unchanged at $1.32 per pound. Cheese purchase prices will rise by five cents per poiund for both blocks and barrels. It has not yet been announced how the 50 cents will be taken off the support price on July 1. Speculation is, however, that most of it will come off butter, leaving powder prices near their newly established levels. The motivation for tilting prices toward powder in both the rise and fall of the support price is that the demand for non-fat milk has grown much stronger relative to the demand for butterfat during the last two or three years.

$1.05 To Continue

In Pennsylvania

Last fall the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board raised the required Class I minimum price to be paid for Pennsylvania produced milk by $1.05 for the period of September 1988 through February 1989. The rationale for this increase was to offset some of the adverse effects of the 1988 drought on the costs of producing milk. Early this year the $1.05 premium was extended through August 1989. Since about 50 percent of all Pennsylvania produced milk is used in Class I, the average price received by Pennsylvania farmers is now about 50 cents higher than it would have been, except for whatever over-order premiums handlers would otherwise be paying voluntarily or through negotiations with dairy farmer cooperatives.

The right cutter for the job.

You spend months choosing the right tractor or combine for the job, so why buy the first rotary cutter you see? When you choose an M&W Prairie Clipper® Rotary Cutter you get a cutter built for reliability and serviceability. The flexible box section design absorbs shock because strength is built in, not added on. The special blade design increases the cutting capacity with less power. Heavy 1 5/8" blade pins allow blades to be changed quickly using only one wrench. Standard features include gearboxes designed for the job, adjustable side skids, replaceable oval blade pans, a 9,000 pound 8" clutch on PTO shafts and adjustable wheel spacings on all pull-type models. Complete chain shielding is available on all models. Don't go shopping for a cutter thinking all cutters are the same. Before you buy, see the M&W Prairie Clipper, the right cutter for the job.

The 1989 recipient of the August P. Branding Award is David Maddocks (center) who was nominated by his peers for the honor. The award was presented by Dr. Paul Schellenberger and Mrs. Gus Branding.

Gary Bicksler received the High Individual Overall Award as well as the High Individual Oral Reasons Award at the Penn State Dairy Science Club's 1989 Judging Contest.

retirement in 1979. The August P. Branding Award winner for 1989 is David Maddocks, who was nominated by his fellow students for the honor.

Dairy Shrine Award

The Dairy Shrine Student Recognition, according to Dr. Paul Shellenberger, presenter, is "an attempt to encourage young people to continue working with dairy cattle after finishing school." The nominee receives lifetime membership in the Dairy Shrine, and he or she could go on to win a monetary award if selected from national nominees.

Emphasized in the selection of the nominee are involvement with dairy cattle and the future plans of the individual; academics are of secondary consideration. The 1989 Dairy Shrine Nominee is Walter Moore, an Ag-Science senior from Chatham, Chester County. His family's 400-cow operation has given "Wally" the background necessary to work as a feeder, milker, washer, and Overall Animal Preparation Committee Chairman for the Nittany Lion Fall Classic. He also served as the Assistant Overall Expo Chairman in 1988, and in 1989, was the Overall Chairman. Wally plans to marry in the fall and return to Wal-Moore Enterprises to become co-manager along with his father.

Scholarship Awards

Student Scholarship Awards were presented to four individuals. These nominees, who will compete for national scholarships, must be in the top 10% of their class as well as being active in extracurricular activities. Seniors were Carol Dreisbach and Joanne Kunkel; Ross Hershberger is the junior nominee; Robert Rider is the sophomore nominee.

Dairy Science Judging Team Honors

The 1989 Dairy Judging Team was recognized by Coach Larry Swartz for its fine year of competition. Team members include: Carol Dreisbach, Jennie Hess, Yvette Francisco, Swiss. Carol Dreisbach was fifth overall and Jennie Hess was seventh overall and second in Brown Swiss and fifth in Guernseys. At the World Dairy Expo, the team finished eighth overall and ninth in oral reasons, with 26 teams competing. Yvette Francisco finished eighth individual and won the Jersey breed with an almost perfect, 149 points. Jennie Hess was sixteenth overall individual.

Dr. Larry Muller was presented with the Dairy Cattle Judging Team Award for his contributions to Pennsylvania dairy cattle judging over the past year. An Illinois native and graduate of Purdue University, Dr. Muller joined the Department of Dairy and Animal Science at Penn State in 1976. His research areas include dairy cattle nutrition and management. He is the faculty coordinator of the dairy barns, an advisor of undergraduate and graduate students, and an advisor of the Dairy Science Club. In 1985, he received the Ralston Purina Award for Teaching Excellence; in 1988, he received the MSD Agvet Award for research.

1989 Dairy Princess And Dairy Sweetheart

Crowned as the 1989 Penn State Dairy Princess was Carolyn Norman, a junior Ag Science major who comes from a fine Jersey farm in Liberty. Carolyn has been active in the Dairy Science Club, working as a Publicity Chairman and Chairman of the Special Events for this year's Dairy Exposition.

Serving as the University's Dairy Sweetheart is Katie Comerford, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Comerford of Warriors Mark. Katie assumed her duties with enthusiasm, working "like a little trooper" at the Dairy Exposition.

Penn State Dairyman Editor Recognized

Chris Reaver, editor of the 1989 Penn State Dairyman, was recognized by the faculty and students of the Dairy Science Club for her outstanding dedication to the publication. The Dairyman is the annual yearbook of the Dairy Science Club. It chronicles the events of the club and profiles the faculty and students active in the organization.

Pennsylvanic Holstein Association Awards

The Pennsylvania Holstein Association annually presents two awards: the Pennsylvania Holstein Association Award and the Robert H. Rumler Award. This year's Pennsylvania Holstein Association Award recipient is Mark Price, Chairman of the 1988 Fall Classic. Bill Nichol of the Holstein Association referred to Price as "probably one of the most enjoyable young men I've had the opportunity of meeting — there's never a dull moment when Mark's around."

The Rumler Award is given to the Fall Classic's show manager, who this year was Don Welk. Welk, who hails from Strasburg, was a 1988 member of the Dairy Science Judging team and served as a representative to Ag Student Council. He also served as a member of the Undergraduate Curriculum Committee, which revised the Animal and Dairy Science major requirements. Don plans to return to Strasburg where he hopes to set up a dairy operation.

Foreigners Reminded Of AFIDA Rules

LANCASTER — "All foreigners who have bought or sold agricultural land in Lancaster County must report the transaction to our office within 90 days," said Ray A. Brubaker, County executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Brubaker reminds foreign investors that a report must be filed if all or part of the agricultural land is sold or title is transferred to another person.

"We are responsible for monitoring how much agricultural land in Lancaster County is owned or controlled by foreign individuals or interests," said Brubaker. "Those who are late reporting or who fail to report could face a civil penalty of up to 25 percent of the fair market value of the interest held in the agricultural land."

Authorized by the Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act (AFIDA), a foreign disclosure report must be filed when a single foreign individual, organization, or government holds a direct or indirect interest of 10 percent or more; when a group of foreign individuals, organizations, or governments, acting in concert, hold an aggregate interest of 10 percent or more; or when a group of foreign individuals, organizations, and governments not acting in concert hold a aggregate of 50 percent interest or more ing agricultural land.

"We also remind county government offices, realtors, attorneys and others involved in real estate transactions of our AFIDA obligations," said Brubaker, "and ask for their cooperation and assistance by notifying our office of all foreign investor land transactions."

Foreigners have reported owning about 12.5 million acres of agricultural land in the United States.

Pork Prose

The Best Market Weight

Recently Ron Harrison from Littlestown called me to voice a concern regarding our current market weight for hogs. Ron feels that if the industry would ship lighter hogs, especially during times of depressed prices, fewer tons of pork would need to be consumed, and prices would go up. And he's right.

In November of 1986, I wrote on the subject of market weights. At the time, the most profitable weight for the typical producer was an astounding 270 pounds. But as any surviving pork producer knows, a lot has changed in the last 2½ years. Hog prices have dropped almost $15 per hundredweight. Feed costs have gone up about $60 per ton. And back then, carcass quality had little effect on price. So at the time, cheap corn and high hog prices helped producers make a lot of money by selling at heavier weights. And with the strong market, the industry had little trouble absorbing the extra pounds of pork.

Now that we have a new set of rules, let's take another look at the issues, namely: how average market weights (for the industry) affect hog prices in this country; how market weights affect hog performance; the influence of weight on carcass muscle and fat; the expected effect of market weight on the Hatfield carcass grade. And of course, all these factors together have a big impact on profit.

Hog weight, market price

I recently posed the following question to Dr. George Greaser, agricultural economist at Penn State. "If the entire industry changed the average market weight for hogs by 30 pounds, how much would price change?

"The answer: nearly $6.00 per hundred weight. So if all other supplies of meat remained stable, and we decreased our market weights by 30 pounds, prices would be in the mid 40s rather than the high 30s. Admittedly, that's a pretty drastic change in hog weights. But the point is that the industry could do itself some good during periods of over-supply by simply sending hogs to market sooner.

Hog weight, hog performance

Hogs weighing in the neighborhood of 230 pounds normally gain from 1.6 to 1.75 pounds per day, and require between 4.0 and 4.5 pounds of feed for each pound of gain. So if your hogs average 240 pounds at market time, selling them at 220 would save roughly 85 pounds of feed and get the pigs to market about 12 days sooner. But you would have fewer pounds of hog to sell.

So which weight is more profitable? (At today's prices, it should probably be stated, "At which weight do you minimize your losses?") We'll assume that finishing feed costs are $165 per ton and overhead costs come to $.12 per day. If hog price is the same for both weights, you're better off at the heavier weight—to the tune of about $.27 per head. Obviously, the margin grows bigger for the heavy hog as feed gets cheap. And if feed is expensive—more than $165 or $170 per ton for finishing feed, you're better off at the lighter weights.

But there's another major IF in this scenario—hog price. Before the new grading system at Hatfield, we could always assume that price would not change within a certain weight range, 210 to 260 pounds, for example. And if you're selling on a live weight basis, that's probably still the case.

But carcass leanness changes as hogs grow heavier, and that can exert a lot of leverage on carcass price.

Weight, carcass muscling, carcass fat

Most producers realize that hogs put on more muscle and more fat as weight increases. How much these factors change, depends a lot on the type of hogs you have. But lets assume you have an "average" hog—230 pounds, with a 4.5 square-inch loin eye and 1.0 inches of fat at the 10th rib. The carcass from this pig would have about 56 precent lean cuts, and would fetch the base price under the Hatfield grading system. What would this pig look like at both lighter and heavier weights?

Effect of weight on loin eye area, fat depth

Weight	Loin Eye Area	Fat Depth
lbs.	sq. inches	inches
210	4.24	.86
220	4.37	.95
230	4.50	1.00
240	4.63	1.05
250	4.76	1.15
260	4.89	1.32

(Adapted from National Swine Imprvt. Fed. equations)

These changes are probably more than most people realize. Now let's look at the effect on carcass grade.

Hog weight and Hatfield's grading program

Most producers are aware by now that Hatfield's grading program uses a "Fat-O-Meater" to measure fat depth and loin eye depth. With these two measurements, the percentage lean cuts (ham, loin, shoulder) are estimated on a carcass weight basis. And like any prediction formula, fat has a much bigger influence than muscle on the final value. Using the figures we have above, this is how our pig would grade at various weights.

Effects of weight on percent lean cuts, price under the Hatfield grading program

Weight	Lean cuts	Live price
lbs.	percent	$/cwt
210	56.64	$40.30
220	55.93	$39.75
230	55.60	$39.75
240	55.27	$38.65
250	54.47	$37,55

(Base price of $39.75/cwt, carcass price bonus of $.75/cwt, carcass price discount of $1.50/cwt)

Between 210 and 230 pounds the market doesn't change too much. But once the pig reaches 240 pounds, the percentage lean cuts and the price both come down in a hurry.

Hog weight and expected change in profit

Now let's put all the pieces together—the change in feed requirements and overhead costs, the change in carcass leanness, and the change in the Hatfield grade and price. And that will tell us how much profit can shift for our hog at various weights.

Change in profit at various weights Weight, Profit Change vs. 230 lbs.

lbs.	$/head
210	+$ .24
220	-$ .51
240	-$2.88
250	-$5.99
260	-$9.26

The only thing that would make this table more shocking is an increase in prices. That would make the discounts on the poor grading hogs more severe, and so the drop in profit would be even more dramatic. Any marketing strategy that changes the profit by $2 per head is significant. Here we add 30 pounds to our 230-pound market weight, and the profit margin plummets by more than $9.00 per head.

Summary

1. The weight at which you market a hog has always had a big influence on profit margin. That's true when selling on a live basis. And it's even more important when selling on a carcass basis.

2. Hogs tend to get fatter as they get heavier. That will decrease the percentage lean cuts under the Hatfield grading system. So if your hogs are typical, sending them to market at weights much more than 230 pounds could be costing you a lot of money.

3. THE EXCEPTION. Not all pigs put fat on at the same rate. Compared to the figures we used, your hogs could lay down fat either slower or faster, depending upon your genetics.

4. GET YOUR PENCIL AND CALCULATOR. Look at your grading sheets from Hatfield from the past several months. And specifically, look at the average percentage lean cuts for your hogs at various weights. Find the weight range where the percentage lean cuts "peaks". Under today's conditions (feed costs, etc), the weight at which the percentage lean cuts drops significantly is your maximum weight for selling hogs.

Moreover, the negative impact of surplus butterfat on price calculations and government policy has focused renewed attention on multiple component pricing plans.

Supply and demand are all but balanced right now for non-fat dry milk and cheese, two of the three products bought by the government's Commodity Credit Corporation to prop up the price of milk. Between Oct. 1, the start of the 1989 fiscal year, and March 22, the CCC bought no milk powder and only 230 million pounds of milk in the form of cheese, according to figures released recently by the National Milk Producers Federation.

However, the CCC bought 4.6 billion pounds of milk in the form of butter during the same period. (USDA uses butterfat to calculate milk equivalency; thus every 3.7 pounds of butter bought by the government equates to 100 pounds of milk, even though the non-fat solids from this milk are not purchased.) The continuation of this trend is what, observers say, will cause the price cut.

"What's going to trigger the price decrease next year is the fact that the government bought so much butterfat," said Ed Coughlin, director of regulatory affairs for National Milk. Coughlin has been promoting multiple component pricing as a means of signalling to farmers the changing value of milk's fat and solids-not-fat components.

The former USDA official notes that several developments have reversed the traditional price relationship between butterfat and non-fat powder, which in the past has favored fat. Just a few years ago, for instance, non-fat powder was the main surplus culprit and unsalable stocks of it clogged CCC warehouses. The situation has changed in large part because export demand has raised domestic prices above the government's purchase price.

"Foreign markets are taking about two-thirds of the non-fat dry milk being produced in the U.S., which historically was the percentage being taken by the price support program," Coughlin said.

The main factor in the world market has been the drying up of European supplies as the countries of the European Economic Community have imposed supply control programs. Coughlin said strong export sales are likely to continue for at least the next 18 months, although their long-term future will depend at least partly on political factors that are hard to predict.

Nevertheless, he added, the need for sending a different set of price incentives to dairy farmers should remain as consumer preferences in this country continue to favor non-fat solids. "We're in a situation," he said, "where the fat is becoming more of a problem to sell to consumers."

National Milk has established the Special Task Force on Milk Component Values to address the issue of butterfat pricing and its impact on the support program and national policy. Coughlin himself already is advocating the adoption of multiple component pricing in federal order markets where -- with one exception -- farmers continue to be paid only on the basis of volume and butterfat content.

The exception, in a federal order operating in Utah and Idaho, is the model for a multiple component pricing plan that officials of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative are advocating for the local Federal Order 4 market. The board of directors of the Pennmarva Dairymen's Federation, a trade organization representing the interests of the major cooperatives operating in the order, recently endorsed Atlantic's proposal.

In the short run, however, the industry's attention is likely to remain focused on Jan. 1, 1990. Although farm bill language would appear to lock in a price cut, at least one lobbying group, the Council of Northeast Farmer Cooperatives, is trying to develop an alternative. Steve Kerr, the council's executive director, said the group hopes to make a case for reducing the butterfat differential rather than overall milk prices.

Much the same effect will result if, as expected, USDA focuses exclusively on butterfat when calculating new purchase prices for July 1, when the current $11.10 support price is due to drop back to $10.60. In temporarily raising the support price April 1, the department left the CCC's butter price at $1.32 a pound and raised its non-fat powder price by six and a quarter cents. The July 1 corollary is to drop butter prices and maintain the powder price. This will save the government money, since it's buying butter rather than powder. By lowering the commercial price for butter, it also will reduce the butterfat differential paid to farmers in the nationwide federal order system.

Another possibility is to change -- either administratively or through Congressional legislation -- the way the USDA counts surplus purchases for the trigger calculation. Because the department's milk equivalency is based on butterfat, Kerr noted, the industry receives no credit for the non-fat powder it is selling. By contrast, under a protein-based calculation, the annual surplus would be well under the 5-billion-pound level.

Yet another approach would be to simply pass a law to eliminate the potential cut, as was done last year as part of a drought relief bill. At least one congressman has introduced such legislation, but in the absence of another drought it faces little prospect of passage, Kerr said.

Chief Daughter Tops Western Spring Spectacular

MERCER — A Chief daughter brought the highest price at the Western Spring Spectacular Sale, which was held earlier this month. Jackson Farms Stewart Toni, consigned by Jackson Farms of New Salem, went to Frederick Hormel of Oakdale for $2,100.

Toni is the March, '85, daughter of Crescent Mead Chief Stewart out of Jackson Farms Marshfield Toni. Her record as a two-year-old was 18,600 pounds of milk, 805 pounds of butterfat, and 4.3 percent protein.

Hormel also beat out other buyers to take home the second highest-selling cow, Trenton-Place Elevation Fantom. The $2,050 cow is a Roundoak Ragapple Elevation daughter out of Trenton-Place Wayne Falla. Fantom, consigned by Randy Brown of Acme, has a DHR 360-day record of 21,120 pounds of milk, 717 pounds of butterfat, and 3.4 percent protein.

Laura Spencer of Cochranton consigned the third highest-selling cow, another Chief daughter. Ray-Anthony Glendell Smidge is the three-year-old daughter of Glendell Arlinda Chief out of Reu-hel Farms Willow Smudge. Barry Coffman of Normalville had the top bid of $1,750.

Lancaster Countians Urged To Speak Out On Development

BY LISA RISSER

LANCASTER — Development versus farm preservation is a hot topic in Lancaster County. For quite some time, countians have debated on municipal levels about what should be done. Now is the time for them to make themselves heard.

The Lancaster County Planning Commission released in February a draft policy statement of the comprehensive plan that outlines goals to control growth. Ronald T. Bailey, county planning director, is inviting opinions from residents. "We want citizen involvement in each of the four parts of the plan," he said. "The key to (the plan's) success is effective communication. We're not trying to sell (the draft) as a catalog of ideas. We want to open dialogue to occur on the plan."

The plan, which is being developed in four stages, is intended to give Lancaster County's 60 municipalities guidelines and help them to work together, something of which they have done little.

The Planning Commission's main goal of attaining community consensus for controlling growth began on Friday when it met with municipal officials. Today they will meet with representatives from organizations.

Three guest speakers are featured at the meetings, which will be moderated by Al Benkendorf, an Oregon-based planning consultant. The speakers are David Church of Successful Communities Program in New Jersey. Successful Communities is a national program aimed at helping growing communities find ways to develop and retain their resources; Maureen Wheatley, member of the Bucks County Regional Planning Commission; and Diane R. Brake, representative of the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Council in New Jersey.

In subsequent weeks the Planning Commission will hold public meetings around the county. The meetings, which begin at 7:30, will take place:

•Tuesday, May 2, Lancaster Recreation Commission

•Wednesday, May 3, Manheim Township Municipal Building

•Thursday, May 4, East Hempfield Township Municipal Building

•Wednesday, May 10, Solanco High School Auditorium

•Thursday, May 11, Ephrata High School

Among the actions the draft outlines for agricultural land include:

•identifying areas for urban development

•enact municipal zoning regulations that protect agricultural uses from non-farm activities that would interfere with normal farm practices

•establish minimum lot sizes in farm-use zones so that farming may continue within the zones

•enact flexible zoning regulations to permit a variety of entrepreneurial acitivities that provide markets for agricultural products

•restrict extension of sanitary sewer and water systems into agricultual areas

•enact municipal zoning standards that permit the utilization of transfer of development rights to allow for the permanent conservation of viable farms

•encourage organizations to purchase conservation easements for farmland preservation

•facilitate the economic expansion of agriculture; plan and coordinate highway improvements to minimize disruptive effects on continued ag practices in areas through which the roads must pass

•minimize groundwater pollution attributable to poor ag management practices

•organize a program that would match farmers with those who want to sell or lease farms

Wayne Co. Extension Celebration

HONESDALE (Wayne) — Wayne County Cooperative Exension and Penn State's College of Agriculture are celebrating the 75th anniversary of cooperative extension the week of May 8. On May 8, 1914, the United States Congress passed the Smith-Lever Act, which funded cooperative extension at land-grant universities in every state. As a result, Pennsylvania's first county agent was appointed that same year to serve in Bedford County. While the Wayne County Pomona Grange began efforts in 1915 to secure a local agent it was not until May 1916 that Ray Wakely was hired to fill the spot in Wayne County.

While the Wayne County observance of the 75th anniversary will include displays in the lobby of the Court House and in the window of Rea and Derick drug store a highlight of the celebration will be an open house in the Wayne County Extension office on May 8 from 2:00 to 5:30 p.m. The public is invited to the open house which will feature a historical video and presentations by staff members of several current educational programs being offered by cooperative extension.

Refreshments will be served and everyone is invited to visit the open house in the Wayne County Cooperative Extension office, which is located in the basement of the Court House.

Our 82nd Year Serving The Community

PennAg Exec Addressed Animal Welfare Symposium

EPHRATA (Lancaster) — David R. Brubaker, executive vice president of PennAg Industries Association, recently addressed the Canadian/American Working Group of the World Society for the Protection of Animals in Toronto, Canada during a two-day symposium held April 6-7. The symposium was held to discuss the treatment of animals, particularly farm animals, under the United States/Canadian Free Trade Agreement. Brubaker presented an overview of the Free Trade Agreement, which was signed January, 1988.

"An integrated and economically efficient North American market is necessary to compete with the European Economic Community and other major providers of agricultural products," stated Brubaker.

Under the Free Trade Agreement, each country will decide its own standards on health, safety, environmental, and consumer protection issues; however, a "harmonization" or equivalent of standards is one of the goals of the agreement. Working groups will be established for agricultural technical standards and issues to be considered include: feed additives (labeling, withdrawal times, warnings), innoculations, meat residue, and the humane care of livestock.

Currently, the United States used 89 percent of Canada's live animal exports and 49 percent of its feed exports. Agriculture in Canada differs from that in the United States as it is far more controlled by government and has smaller, less integrated operations. "The U.S.-Canadian Free Trade Agreement will have different effects upon different commodities and agricultural industries. Those enjoying a comparative advantage will gain; less economically competitive components of agriculture will suffer," said Mr. Brubaker.

"We are seeking a continued trend toward the globalization of markets and the internationalization of business firms. We are continuing to see a consolidation of firms within agribusiness, and the Free Trade Agreement may well accelerate this trend. In addition, the F.T.A. may bring about the geographic expansion of firms moving across country boundaries," stated Brubaker.

ta within the next few years".

The Atlantic Dairy Cooperative represents 3,750 dairy farmer members who are mostly from Pennsylvania, but also from the surrounding states of New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia and West Virginia. ADC has 72 years experience in marketing milk and obtaining the best price for their members' milk. ADC was formed in 1987 through the merger of two very successful milk cooperatives Interstate Milk Producers and Lehigh Valley Farmers.

Today, ADC ranks as the eighth largest milk cooperative in the United States with sales totaling $499 million. In the 1988 fiscal year, ADC marketed 3.45 billion pounds of milk.

Agriculture is the nation's largest industry, too. While national and global trends can determine the financial status of the American farmers, it important to understand that farmers are consumers as well and that their income level impacts other industries, too.

According to Dr. Larry Yager, area marketing agent from Penn State Extension Service, of course the biggest influence on the agricultural industry in 1988 was the drought which turned surplus into shortage. However, despite the drought, economists saw a slowing exodus of farmers in 1988 at just .8 percent.

Agribusinesses began to rapidly follow a trend of mergermania, according to Yager, in 1988 and becoming a major concern and deserving of a closer look is the influx of foreign money into several agricultural industries. This was especially prevalent in the areas of ag equipment and ag chemicals.

In 1988 and continuing into 1989, the future of free trade is being determined as GATT deliberations continue. With the 1990 Farm Bill coming up, Yager says, farmers can look for reduced support levels. Also, the environmental concerns, gaining importance in agriculture, will mean major restrictions on farming methods.

"It will impact on what we can and cannot do in farming," stated Yager.

Yager had some upbeat items in the farm economic outlook. Net farm income was between $44 and $48 billion which is the second highest in history despite a year of drought. Also, Soviet grain sales will mean greater opportunity for farm income.

However, Yager said there are still some 'cloudy' factors. Farm subsidies will be cut. With the Credit Commodity Corporation (CCC) purchases expected to exceed the five billion target, next January farmers will lose 50 cents in milk support price. Reportedly, 15,000 farmers are on the financial ropes primarily in the Mid West and upper Mid West.

But the big question for 1989 remains, "What if the drought returns?"

Across the nation, planting acreage intentions are up:

- Corn up 8%
- Soybeans up 5%
- Wheat is down by 1% in acreage, but with the continuing drought conditions in areas of the Mid West, yields will be much lower, said Yager.
- Oats up 5%
- Hay up 4%.

However, Pennsylvania farmers are not following the national trends. In the state:

- Corn acreage is the same, but it's important to note that corn makes up 63 percent of the total crop acreage in Pennsylvania.
- Soybeans up 13%
- Barley up 33%
- Wheat up 26%
- Oats up 3%

While lowfat and skim milk steadily increase in sales at the other end of the product line, creams and half and halfs are increasing, too.

"It seems consumers want the lowfat and skim milk, but they also want their premium ice creams, too. Yoguts, sour creams and dips are also increasing in sales," said Yager.

According to the American Dairy Association, dairy economists expect dairy product sales to increase another one to three percent through 1989, Over the past ten years, the three products with the greatest increaes in consumption are yogurt, up 90 percent; lowfat milk, up 46 percent and cheese up 39 percent. However, sales dropped in butter, down 5 percent and whole milk, down 33 percent.

Pennsylvania ranks fifth in the nation in milk production, but Yager noted that although far behind Pennsylvania, Washington, Iowa and Texas are coming on strong.

All things considered, Yager says it will not be a bad year for farmers if the drought holds off.

An Economic Overview

- The nation has experienced 76 months of economic growth.
- Interest rates are one-half the rates of the 1980 levels.
- Unemployment is 5.3% in 1988. In 1982 the unemployment rate was 10.3%. (Low unemployment rates, while good for the country forces farmers to pay higher wages to compete with local industries.)
- Inflation in 1980 was at 13.5%. In 1988 inflation was at 4.4%.
- New construction was up by 1.1% in 1988.
- Recession fears are diminishing, but the consensus is among economists the nation will experience a mild recession by the end of 1989 and beginning of 1990.

On the down side of the national picture:

- The federal deficit is at $26 trillion. For farmers this means an additional burden to be shouldered by agriculture. Farmers will see a reduction in farm support prices and government programs.

"We have all we want to eat in this country and we are trying to export food. But there are also 25 other nations which would like to export. That would not be a problem if the rest of the world ate as well as we do in the United States, then we could sell four times more in exports," explained Yager. "Also, developing nations are working towards becoming self-sufficient in food production."

- The United States is a nation of spenders. Savings rate in 1988 was 4%.
- Third World debt is high and large debts will probably have to be written off by city banks.

Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff told the audience that a budget of $200,000 is proposed to combat the Salmonella Enteritidis problem facing the poultry industry.

He said that public perception is of prime importance. For the industry to grow, it is essential to get public perception of eggs on a positive note.

Comedian Andy Andrews (left) kept the audience laughing with his down-home humor. With Andrews is Michael Shelton, director of communications for the PA Poultry Federation.

Wolff Asks Township Officials To Aid Farmers

HERSHEY (Dauphin) — State Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff today asked township officials not to burden farmers with ordinances and zoning that interfere with agriculture.

"I ask that you appreciate agriculture's contributions to your economy and its employment possibilities," said Wolff. "Farmland maintains open space for all the residents, including hunters and tourists. Farmland also recharges ground water and reduces rain runoff and flooding.

"I ask that you remember and consider these factors and do not pass ordinances or zoning that unduly restrict or curtail farming in your township."

Wolff also urged the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors to preserve farmland with Act 149, which authorized state and county purchases of agricultural conservation easements.

"We have a real opportunity to energize public support for agriculture," said Wolff. "Every rural policy agenda should promote farmland protection through Act 149."

In a speech to the 67th Annual State Convention of the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors in Hershey, Wolff also called for support of the tax reform referendum.

Dauphin Deposit Opens Loan Production Office

Dauphin Deposit Bank held an open house on Tuesday to celebrate the new location of their corporate loan production facility in Granite Run near Lancaster. On hand to greet nearly 90 clients including farmers and representatives from agribusinesses were, from left, Sharon E. Good; John Risser, vice president of agri-finance; and John Mattillo, agri-finance officer.

Agricultural loans from Lancaster, Lebanon, Dauphin, York, Cumberland, Franklin, and Adams counties are processed in the office, which had been located in New Holland. The new location is more central and handier to the county's highways, according to Risser.

The loan officers visit farmers in their homes to discuss ag loans. Currently Dauphin Deposit Bank and its sister institution, Bank of Pennsylvania, have loaned more than $30 million to farmers and agribusinesses.

Four-H Tackles Problems Of Urban Youth

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — These days, 4-H is on the move. In Pennsylvania cities, 4-H agents and leaders are using innovative programs to give urban youth a chance to learn valuable communication, leadership, and life skills.

Philadelphia 4-H offers "Leadership Skills You Never Outgrow," a program that teaches teenagers confidence and self-respect. The agents work with youth in community centers and youth councils in housing developments. "We try to reach kids through other kids," says Rudy Rudowski, a 4-H agent for Penn State Cooperative Extension in Philadelphia County.

To gain self-confidence, these 4-H members lead projects that they feel they can comfortably teach other members how to do. Some of the projects that they have started are a drill team and working with recreation centers in housing developments. Once club members gain self confidence, they work with 4-H leaders to introduce the citizenship project to others.

Another city 4-H project uses a talk-show format to increase members' awarenesss of drug problems. Daisy Martinez, 4-H program assistant in Philadelphia County, works with Oscar Almodovar, counselor for Congreso de Latinos Unidos, a community youth council that provides crisis and drug intervention for Hispanic high school students.

The two youth workers guide a group of Edison High School students in the "Oprah Show," a program modeled after the popular television talk show of the same name. Student volunteer to act as panel members, filling roles such as parent of drug abuser, former drug dealer, narcotics police officer, or former drug abuser. The remaining students participate as the audience, asking the panel assigned questions.

Martinez says that once students became interested, they think up their own questions. "They got involved in the issues that affect them," says Martinez. "We're trying to let these kids realize on their own that they have the potential to solve the many problems that are around them."

As a result of their interest, students have started community service projects. They helped organize a canned food drive for the children of drug abusers and continue to visit retirement homes and assist other senior citizens in the community by carrying their packages home from stores.

Other 4-H projects influence parents, families, and communities through youth development. In Pittsburgh, 4-H agent Loretta Adderson helps direct "On My Own and OK," a project for eight- to 13-year-old latchkey children. For six weeks, children attend program sessions and discuss topics such as coping with the feelings of being home alone, fixing nutritious snacks, taking care of brothers and sisters, and responding to an emergency.

"In addition to this," says Adderson, "we're training teens for a hotline for these and other self-care children. The phone line will be set up from 4:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. Children who are home alon can call if they have a problem or even if they just want someone to talkt to if they are feeling afraid or need advice."

Kathy Vorse and Wendy Marshall of the Erie City Zoo lead a 4-H zoo project for 25 members who share an interest in animals. The 4-H'ers help with seasonal programs and observe animals' behavior, caretaking, and general zoo operations. Older members guide special behind-the-scenes tours. Vorse and Marshall even take the club on field trips to other zoos outside the state.

A program that brings parents and children closer together in the Scranton area is a 4-H skiing project. Four years ago Bill Pencek, 4-H agent in Lackawanna County, started the project, which now draws more than 100 participants. Each winter, families meet at a ski resort every Wednesday night. Club members and parents get lift tickets and equipment rentals at reduced rates. Pencek reports that parents find the experience so helpful that they don't worry about their children being out on a school night, though they often make them do homework between ski runs.

In cities many youngsters participate in 4-H at school. The best-known project in Pennsylvania schools is embryology. Last year, more than 20,000 students from fourth through twelfth grade studied zoology by hatching chicks in incubators. Other successful school 4-H projects include hydroponics, where students grow plants in gravel and nutrient-rich water, and rocketry, where students explore the fundamentals of energy inertia and gravity.

West Virginia Conservation Planning Up

MORGANTOWN, WV — Conservation planning was up 40 percent in 1988 in West Virginia, says Rollin N. Swank, state conservationist for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

SCS helped develop conservation plans for 158,580 acres, compared to 112,577 acres in fiscal year 1987.

Farmers are making plans to reduce erosion on crop fields, to remain eligible for USDA programs. For highly erodible fields that were in crops between 1981 and 1985, farmers have until Dec. 31, 1994, to apply conservation practices. But the planning must be done by next Dec. 31.

In 1988, Swank said, SCS employees gave technical assistance to 13,306 persons and groups, a thousand more than in 1987. Almost 49,000 acres were treated to reduce erosion, three-fourths on pastures and hayland.

Fascinating Facts

So-called "stress vitamins," which claim to help you deal with emotional stress, serve no purpose. Although your body may need more vitamins during periods of physical stress (after surgery, for instance), there is no evidence that these special formulas will help you if you are facing psychological stress.

About 80% of the food commercials aired during Saturday morning children's programming are for products of "low nutritional value," according to a recent study at the University of Delaware. Ads for high-sugar products, such as candy and cereals, prevail.

Peggy Wolff Offers Kaleidoscopic View of Life In The Public Eye

BY LOU ANN GOOD

HARRISBURG — What is it like to be the wife to the state secretary of agriculture?

Ask Peggy Wolff and she offers a kaleidoscopic view of life in the public eye.

"It's exciting, challenging and very hard work," she admits. "In fact, it's usually a seven-day-a-week job that is as demanding and ties us down as much as milking cows did when we lived on the farm."

The farm, which Peggy constantly refers to as home, is located in Westmoreland County. It was there that the Wolffs began partnership farming with Boyd's parents 35 years ago.

"I was a small city girl," Peggy recalled. She met Boyd at a Penn State 4-H function after graduating from high school.

Boyd was there to judge dairy cows and Peggy attended to be judged for her angel food cake making. "I won; he (Boyd) didn't," Peggy quips. But their attachment to each other continued throughout their college years while Boyd majored in animal husbandry attended Penn State and Peggy a small private women's college to major in music education.

A year after college graduation, the couple married and settled on the Westmoreland farm. Peggy taught music until the birth of their first of four children. She became very involved with dairy farming and their registered Holsteins.

Although they began with 30 to 34 cows, Boyd, who is labeled a progressive farmer by his wife, expanded the operation to approximately 90 milking cows plus replacements. "We were one of the first in the area to have a free stall barn, milking parlor and liquid manure storage," Peggy said.

Throughout the years, Peggy directed a choir and taught piano students to satisfy her musical inclinations, but she had no problem substituting her music career for an agricultural one.

She said, "I grew into farming. I'd rather drive tractor than clean or cook."

As full-time farmers and not particularly politically involved, the couple never in their wildest imaginations dreamed that someday Boyd would be named secretary of agriculture.

Boyd always actively participated in farmer organizations such as Pennsylvania Farmers Association and the Holstein Association. He was active in civic and church affairs and a member of the local planning commission and the school board authority. About six or seven years ago, he helped formed the Penn Ag Democrats "to let the system know there are democratic farmers."

"We are conservative democrats who are very supportive of Govenor Casey." Peggy said.

Several years ago, the Wolff's invited the Casey who was running for office to Penn Ag's democrat annual picnic. Almost everyone had left the picnic when Casey arrived—extremely late.

"He was so apologetic," Peggy recalled. He was also hungry. The Wolffs took him to the local "greasy spoon" where Casey ate a cheese sandwich and tomato soup.

"We found Casey very easy to talk with and we talked for hours about farming concerns and particularly ag land preservation, and ourselves," Peggy said.

When Casey became governor, he vowed to appoint a farmer to the secretary of agriculture position. He remembered Boyd Wolff, the progressive farmer who could educate the cabinet on the problems farmers face.

"The appointment came at a good time in our life," Peggy said. "It was almost as if it was planned, but it wasn't."

The Wolffs had sold their herd in 1979 and rented their operation to another farmer. The Wolffs continued to crop farm. Like many farmers, they had difficulty retaining good hired help. "Usually we had three high school students to help unload hay bales, but one time, we were short on help and had to do much of it themselves. Afterwards they looked at each other and said, "We don't need to work this hard. We can't continue this."

Peggy said that it was an issue of health and lack of adequate farm labor that caused them to sell their farm. But in keeping with their farming commitment the farm is kept in agriculture.

The Wolffs retained 30 acres of land and built their dream home on it. It is a passive solar home built in a hill with "a fabulous view." Peggy said, "I'd never thought I'd be satisfied with a modern house, but I love it."

"Never in our wildest imagination, did Boyd and I dream that he would be appointed state secretary of agriculture," admitted Peggy.

The home was only partially completed when Boyd received his assignment in Harrisburg. Peggy stayed behind to oversee the completion of their home. That year was one of the most frustrating for Peggy who had been used to being in full partnership with her husband.

"Before his appointment, Boyd and I did everything together," she said. "Now, we no longer sharing a complete partnership and it's been a big adjustment."

She sees herself thrust into a more supportive or listening role.

She misses her old friends and the solidness of the farming community. Still, she considers herself lucky. "I'm invited to a lot of the meetings. Few other cabinet wives are invited. Because farmers are traditionally in partnership with their wives they give me the opportunity to attend."

What is a typical week like for this cabinet couple?

Peggy pulls out a calendar and shakes her head. "There is no typical week." she answers. "Every one is different. Each contains meetings and events. It's exciting and challenging."

Although Peggy enjoys accompanying her husband to many functions, she admits that both sometimes feel too worn out to attend, but their loyalty to the job demands that they go on.

She said, "My husband views his role as a continual service to agriculture. He knows the problems farmers face. He is a strong advocate for the farmer."

Governor Casey who admits he knows little about ag is strongly influenced by Boyd's input. The Wolffs are most proud of enactment of Farmland Preservation. Currently he's pushing for the tax reform referendum, that, he believes, farmers sorely need.

The department of agriculture, which has a nucleus in Harrisburg and seven regional offices, has diverse responsibilities from such things as weights and measures to dog law enforcement. It is often a thankless job.

Facing criticism, that always accompanies political careers, is one of the hardest issues for Peggy who said, "I get very upset when someone beats on him."

She said, "I have no magic formula for dealing with the anger and hurt, but it helps to realize that no matter how hard you try, you can't please all people all the time."

One of the intriguing aspects of politics is that you can differ with friends on opposites sides, Peggy said, but after the issue is settled, you can form an alliance with them again.

Despite the changes public life brings, some things remain constant. Peggy still cleans her own house, two in fact, the one in Westmoreland and the one in the Harrisburg area. When they entertain, she does her own cooking. She continues to take pride in her German heritage and prefers German dishes.

She continues to collect cows in all sizes, shapes and materials. "We started our cow collection many years ago," she said. "Then they were difficult to find. Now since they are so prevalent, it isn't nearly as much fun to collect them. We are much more selective in what we collect."

Our whole family is very agricultural oriented," Peggy said. The children grew up deeply involved in 4-H programs. Today, one of the Wolff's daughters is married and works for PFA; one works for PA Nurseymens Association; and the third attends Penn State. Their only son died at age 20.

The Wolffs celebrated their 35th anniversary last week. Peggy attributes their successful marriage to accepting each other and not trying to reform each other and to being supportive of each other's interests.

"Boyd loves his job," she said. "I see myself being supportive. It takes a lot of give and take in making adjustments to the demands, but that's part of the job."

Although living in a Harrisburg suburb, Peggy Wolff, wife of the secretary of agriculture, yearns for their Westmoreland County farm. Here, she points to photos of the farm and their home.

Now Is The Time To Enjoy Delicious Strawberries

You can find California strawberries featured at very attractive prices every week at many local markets. California produces about 72% of the nation's total supply of strawberries. Although strawberries are grown in almost all parts of California, the major growing area of the state extends from Sacramento to San Diego. And, approximately one-half of the state's total strawberry production is located within a 50-mile radius of central California.

Strawberries are an excellent source of Vitamin C with one cup supplying about 150% of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance for the average adult.

Strawberries also add iron to the diet. Many Americans, particularly women and children, have diets deficient in this much needed mineral so it is good to know that one cup of fresh whole strawberries provides about 8% of the U.S. RDA for iron.

One of the greatest things about strawberries is that a whole cup has only about 60 calories. Sweet, plump and juicy strawberries are a delicious, low-calorie addition to reducing diets.

Shop for fully ripened, bright red strawberries. They do not ripen after they are picked.

Select berries that are plump and well rounded, with a natural shine, rich red color and bright green, fresh looking caps.

Use strawberries as soon after purchase as possible to insure the most delectable flavor and appearance and highest nutritional value.

Remove berries from their containers and arrange them in a single layer on a cookie sheet or other shallow container for refrigeration. Cool refrigerator temperatures will help keep the berries fresh and bright for several days.

Never wash strawberries or remove caps until just before using. Washing removes the natural protective outer layer. The caps protect the strawberries and help preserve flavor, texture and nutrients.

Strawberries are delicate and require the gentlest of handling. To wash, place berries in a colander or large strainer and rinse with a gentle spray of cold water.

After washing remove caps. Give the cap a gentle twist or use the point of a sharp paring knife.

Pat strawberries dry with paper towels before serving whole or sliced, fresh, cooked, flambeed, frappeed or any way. They will be delicious.

If you are looking for a new way to serve strawberries, try California Strawberry Thickshakes. They are so thick you can stand a long spoon up in the middle and it will not move a fraction of an inch. Just puree one pint of fresh strawberries in a blender. Add one pint of vanilla ice cream, softened, and blend until smooth. Freeze in container for about one hour. Before serving, blend a few seconds until smooth. Spoon into tall glasses and garnish with whole strawberries.

For an old fashioned ice cream soda, place ½ cup crushed and sweetened strawberries, three tablespoons milk and a large scoop of strawberry ice cream in a large glass. Fill the glass with chilled carbonated water. So thirst quenching.

THIS MAY BE YOUR ANSWER TO: Heart Problems, High Blood Pressure, Poor Circulation, Arthritis, Diabetes, Leg Cramps, Numbness, Tingling, Cold Hands And Feet & Atherosclerosis.
All of these conditions may be helped by Golden Pride Formula #1. This aids in removing approximately 50 detrimental factors including lead, mercury and calcium deposits from the arteries. It also lowers triglycerides and cholesterol.
This chelated formula called Golden Pride Formula #1 is available in a pleasant-tasting form containing honey, royal jelly, bee pollen and the chelating agent EDTA. Start to erase years of damage to your system. Good nutrition can eleviate many health problems. The following are just a few testimonies of some of the many persons using Golden Pride Products.
January 12, 1985
Dear Mrs. Harris:
Twelve years ago, I had a severe attack of kidney stones and have lived under the threat of another. I started taking Golden Pride's Chelation and after three weeks, I passed three kidney stones without any pain whatsoever. Upon investigation, the stones crumbled under pressure.
I am a diabetic and have had a toe without any feeling at all for two years. The feeling is now back in the toe. My blood pressure has bee n elevated for several years. I have been on medicine during that time for blood pressure. After six weeks on Chelation, my blood pressure is down to 140/80—the best ever in eight years. I was getting ready to get glasses because of my diabetic condition but after two weeks on Chelation, I began to tell a difference in my vision and it is still improving. Needless to say, I do not feel the need for glasses.
I am also taking Golden Pride Bee Pollen and Formula 76 Plus, and I highly recommend them to everyone for energy and health.

Dear Pat:
I have been in pain since the early 1960s from a circulatory problem in my feet and legs. Several doctors said they could not help. Recently Pat Lawson has been working with me in her office and including the new Golden Pride Chelation. Many changes have taken place and for the first time in over three years, I am able to sleep and have no pain

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

A chilly breeze dances down out of the Northwest, stirring the fragile whips of greening willow trees and infant maple leaves stretching larger with each new dawn.

Clear, brilliant sunshine defies the morning's briskness, pouring warmth into sheltered spots. It sends the cats sprawling out on the blacktop, their backs against the calf pens, to snooze away the hours.

But snoozing now is only for the cats. Warm sunshine and brisk breezes, greening trees and thickening grass stir a primeval, instinctive response to the season. It quickens the pulse of every farmer, as well as many whose livelihood is not tied to tillage of the ground, but whose roots nevertheless go deep into Mother Earth.

It is spring. And the soil beckons, singing a powerful, passionate siren song.

The time for tearing down, replacing, rebuilding and servicing is past. Equipment, fueled and greased, with even a fresh coat of paint perhaps, waits poised, fieldside. With the turn of a key or push of a button, horsepower springs to throbbing life, surging forward on subtle directions from gearshift and throttle.

And, as moldboard, or curved disk blade, or springy chisel teeth, bite into cool sod or stubble cover, a fragrance, unlike any other, is released which captures the very essence of spring.

Freshly-turned ground. Not the most expensive scent created at the hands of man, nor the most sweetly-smelling flower, equals the rich, earthy perfume freed by shiny steel slicing into damp earth.

Still, the sharp, clean aroma of fresh soil is but a part of the sensual experience of the planting season. For spring is a theater in the round, and a few seats could possibly provide a better view than that seen from atop a tractor turning and tilling the soft, fresh ground.

Green growth explodes in all directions, carpets of lush grass stretching to the horizon, gently swaying in the wind. Swelling leafbuds color woodlots with misty shades of green and muted red. Dandelions dot fields and fencerow edges, like globs of sunshine carelessly strewn over the landscape.

Robins, blackbirds, sometimes flocks of noisy seagulls, follow the wake of the tillage equipment, feasting on fat worms and grubs exposed by the equipment's passage. While they would flee a human so near on foot, the banqueting birds show little fear of tractor operators, figuring perhaps the object on the seat is just another odd-shaped muffler protruding above the tractor's dusty hood.

A pair of mallards paddles toward the safety of center pond, splitting the blue mirror of the overhead sky and its streaks of mares-tail high ice clouds.

With each tillage round, neatness and order is restored to post-winter fields. Straight-edged rows of clean, darker, damp soil tidy up the scruffy look of rotting stubble, patches of dried foxtail and ragged perennial weeds. Bordering stands of greening hayfields accent the neatness of newly-turned soil and stripe the countryside with contrasting color combinations.

And with the essence of spring planting season comes new hope against winter-weariness, against the dust of droughts, against fast-depleting hay mows and bins which echo with emptiness.

While the fragrance of freshly turned ground is the very essence of spring, it is also the essence of a fresh start, a new beginning, a renewed hope. It is against this hope that millions of manhours, millions of dollars, millions of acres and millions of seeds are annually pitted against the whims of weather and world markets.

And, it is this essence which keeps farmers, year after year, returning again to work the land they so love.

Kitchen Remodeling

COOPERSBURG (Lehigh) — If you are a homeowner contemplating a kitchen remodeling project, you might be doing yourself a favor to read an informative booklet titled "kitchen cabinet facts" before making any decisions or commitments.

In the booklet, tips and information are presented in a non-technical language to help the consumer avoid common pitfalls and save money when remodeling your kitchen. it opens with a brief discussion of the three kitchen remodeling options available to the homeowner - installing all new cabinets (the most expensive way to go); repainting or refinishing existing cabinets (the least costly); or the relatively new technique known as cabinet refacing (which lies somewhere in between, costwise).

Also included is a section on wood in general, why it is so popular how it is seasoned, and the causes of deterioration. It also provides a list of 24 common woods used in furniture and cabinets, ranging from the very hard to the very soft; answers to some frequently asked questions about cabinets and remodeling, and discusses European design and the various types of cabinet doors.

For a free copy of Kitchen Cabinet Facts write to Kitchenwood Inc., Box 263, Coopersburg, Pa. 18036 or call (215) 282-4400.

Looking For The Unusual, The Best?

Looking for the unusual? Or the best recipes of our contributors? This week's column contains them. It also has rhubarb recipes since many gardens prolifically produce it during this time of the year. For more rhubarb recipes, check the "Cooks Question Corner."

RHUBARB KUCHEN

1¼ cups flour
2 tablespoons sugar
½ cup butter
2 egg yolks, beaten
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped nuts

Sift together dry ingredients; cut in butter as for pie crust. Add nuts and egg yolks, mixing well. Press in bottom of a greased 9x12-inch baking pan.

Filling:

2 egg yolks, beaten
½ cup flour
2 cups sugar
4-5 cups rhubarb, chopped

Beat egg yolks; add flour and sugar. Blend well. Mix with rhubarb. Pour in crust and bake in a 350 degree oven for 45 minutes. Remove from oven and add meringue.

Meringue:

¼ teaspoon cream of tartar

POPCORN-GUMDROP CAKE

1 cup butter
1 pound marshmallows
5 quarts popped corn
½ pound roasted peanuts
1 pound small gumdrops
Gumdrop flowers (optional)

Combine butter and marshmallows in a large Dutch oven; cover over low heat, stirring constantly, until marshmallows melt. Add popcorn, peanuts, and one pound gumdrops, stirring until blended. Press mixture into a well-greased 10-inch tube pan. Chill until firm. Invert cake onto serving plate, and garnish with gumdrop flowers, if desired (see note). Yield: one 10-inch cake.

Note: To make gumdrop flowers, use one large gumdrop for each flower. To make a rose, set a gumdrop into thirds vertically. Flatten each third into an oval by rolling with a rolling pin on a surface sprinkled with granulated sugar. Then roll the smallest piece into a cone, pinching at narrow end for stem. Roll remaining pieces around cone, pressing upper edges for a petal effect and pinching at bottom for stem end.

To make a daisy, set gumdrop upright on counter. Using kitchen shears or a sharp knife, cut 8 equally spaced slits through rounded top of gumdrop, not quite cutting to bottom; sprinkle cut surfaces with sugar as necessary to eliminate stickiness. Pick gumdrop up, and squeeze bottom together slightly to make petals open. From a gumdrop of contrasting color, shape a ¼-inch ball; press gently into center of daisy.

If you need to ask, "What is it?" it is unusual. This sole broccoli bake recipe from the United Dairy Association may be unusual, but it uses basic ingredients.

LEMON CHEESECAKE

28 graham crackers, crushed
¼ cup ground nuts, optional
½ cup melted butter
1 3-ounce package lemon-flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup whipping cream

Mix first three ingredients together and spread in bottom of an oblong pan, leaving a few crumbs to sprinkle on top. Pat down firmly. Mix gelatin in boiling water and allow to cool while you cream the cream cheese, sugar, and vanilla. Add gelatin mixture and blend 2 minutes more. Whip 1 cup cream, add to cream mixture. Spread over crumbs. Sprinkle remaining crumbs on top. Chill for several hours.

SOLE BROCCOLI BAKE

2 packages frozen broccoli spears
2 pounds sole fillets
1½ cups chicken broth, divided
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup milk
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Swiss cheese
¼ cup toasted sliced almonds

Cook broccoli according to package directions; drain well. Roll fish fillets jelly-roll fashion; secure with toothpicks. Place fillets in large skillet with cover. Pour 1 cup chicken broth over fillets. Bring to boiling. Reduce heat; simmer, covered until fish flakes easily with a fork, about 12 minutes. Remove fish from cooking liquid. Place alternated rows of fish and broccoli in buttered 2-quart rectangular baking dish; set aside. Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a medium-sized saucepan; stir in flour and seasonings until smooth. Remove from heat. Gradually stir in milk and remaining ½ cup chicken broth. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Boil and stir 1 minute. Remove from heat and stir in ¾ cup cheese until melted. Pour sauce over fish and broccoli; sprinkle with almonds. Bake until hot and bubbly, about 10 minutes. Remove from oven and sprinkle with remaining ¼ cup cheese. Return to oven until cheese is just melted, about 3 minutes. Serve immediately.

Peggy Wolff, wife of the Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff, offers a kaleidoscopic view of life in the public eye on page B2.

With their demanding lifestyle, you'd think the Wolffs would hire a cook and a cleaning lady. But not Peggy. She still does her own cooking and cleaning.

Her favorite dishes come from her German background. Two are featured today. She is a cook who uses a little bit of this and that and not exact measurements. The German ingredients can be purchased at ethnic stores.

Health concerns have encouraged Peggy to actively pursue a healthy lifestyle. She relaxes with water aerobics and daily walking. Currently she is taking a class at Hershey Medical Center on "Learning to live the lean life," a behavioral diet modification program. But she still enjoys those old German recipes and hopes you will also.

RHUBARB CUSTARD PIE

Combine topping ingredients; spread evenly over pie. Bake at 400 degrees for 10 minutes; reduce heat to 350 degrees; bake 50 minutes more.

Handling Eggs Safely At Home

Raw eggs that were contaminated with Salmonella enteritidis bacteria have caused some recent outbreaks of food-borne illness.

Scientists strongly suspect that Salmonella bacteria can be transmitted from infected laying hens directly into the interior of the eggs before the shells are formed. The full extent of the problem is not yet known, but scientists are working to find solutions.

While the risk of contracting salmonellosis from raw or undercooked eggs is extremely small, eggs are a perishable product and should be treated as such. As with any other perishable food product, proper storage and cooking of eggs is necessary to prevent the growth of potentially harmful bacteria. Consumers should continue to follow safe food-handling practices when preparing eggs.

Special precautions are needed, however, when eggs are served or sold to people in high-risk categories who are particularly vulnerable to Salmonella enteritidis infections: the very young, the elderly, pregnant women (because of risk to the fetus), and people already weakened by serious illness or whose immune systems are weakened.

Consumers should:

1. Avoid eating raw eggs and foods containing raw eggs: Home-made Caesar salad and Hollandaise sauce, for example. Products such as home-made ice cream, home-made eggnog, and home-made mayonnaise should also be avoided, but commercial forms of these products are safe to serve since they are made with pasteurized eggs. Commercial pasteurization destroys Salmonella bacteria.

2. Cook eggs thoroughly until both the yolk and white are firm, not runny, in order to kill any bacteria that may be present. There may be some risk in eating eggs lightly cooked: soft-cooked, soft-scrambled or sunny-side-up, for example.

3. Realize that eating lightly cooked foods containing eggs, such as soft custards, meringues, and French toast, may also be risky for people with weakened immune systems and other high-risk groups.

Consumers should also follow the usual safe food-handling practices for eggs:

1. Use grade AA or A eggs with clean, un-cracked shells. It's best if they have been stored under refrigeration.

2. Refrigerate eggs at home in their original carton as soon as possible, at a temperature no higher than 40° F. Do not wash eggs before storing or using them. Washing is a routine part of commercial egg processing and rewashing is unnecessary.

3. Use raw shell eggs within 5 weeks and hard-cooked eggs (in the shell or peeled) within 1 week. Use leftover yolks and whites within 4 days.

4. Avoid keeping eggs out of the refrigerator for more than 2 hours, including time for preparing and serving (but not cooking). If you hide hard-cooked eggs for an egg hunt, either follow the 2-hour rule or do not eat the eggs.

5. Wash hands, utensils, equipment, and work areas with hot, soapy water before and after they come in contact with eggs and egg-rich foods (foods with eggs as the main ingredient, quiches and baked custards for example.)

6. Serve cooked eggs and egg-rich foods immediately after cooking, or refrigerate at once for serving later. Use within 3-4 days.

Kid's Korner

Readers Write

Dear Readers,

I like reading other letters in Kid's Korner. I live on a dairy farm. My family is daddy, mom, Denise, Gerald, me, Lester, Janet, Eunice, and Joanne. We have 70 cows, one dog named Lucky and a few cats. One cat, Sunbeam, had five baby kittens. Daddy accidently stepped on one. Now we have four. Their names are Twilight, Stockings, Muffin and Taffy. They run around the cow stable. We keep worrying they will get stepped on by a cow. They had some narrow excapes.

I am glad spring is here. Did some of you plant garden yet? We hope to plant soon. My sister, Denise, 13; and Janet, 6; and I, 9; want to each have our own small garden.

Bye, Lucille Wenger

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

If you haven't tried microwaving fresh asparagus yet, you're in for a treat. You'll love the speedy cooking, the fresh flavor, and the bright green color. Something you won't taste or see — but you'll appreciate — is that the fast cooking and minimum water used preserves asparagus's valuable nutrients.

Microwaving guidelines for asparagus are similar to guidelines for other fresh vegetables. Cut in even-sized pieces. Add only a small amount of water. Cover tightly. If salt is needed, add it after cooking. (Taste first — you'll be surprised how good it tastes without salt.) Stir halfway through cooking. Cook the minimum time and let stand tightly covered for a few minutes.

Ideally, asparagus should be the same thickness for even cooking. But even without the ideal, you can have perfectly cooked asparagus. For pieces, cut the quicker-cooking tip ends slightly longer than stem ends, and be sure to stir halfway through cooking. For asparagus spears, arrange spears so thicker spears and stem ends are towards outside edge of the cooking dish. Place tip ends and thin spears toward dish center. If necessary, split stem ends which are ½ -inch or thicker. Rearrange spears towards end of cooking.

Add about 1 tablespoon of water per ½ pound of asparagus. No more than that is usually needed to create steam for cooking. Cover the cooking dish tightly with plastic wrap or a tight-fitting lid.

Do not overcook fresh asparagus. Microwaving time varies depending on size, thickness and temperature. Microwave the minimum time in a recipe. Cookbook times vary, so use good judgment. It's better to have to add time than to end up with tough asparagus.

A pound of room-temperature (or fresh-from-the-garden) thin asparagus pieces (3 to 4 cups) cooks to tender-crisp in as little as 2-½ to 3 minutes on High. Thick asparagus spears and refrigerated asparagus need slightly more cooking time. A pound of spears cooks in 3 to 4 minutes.

If you like asparagus more tender, double the water in today's recipes and microwave on Medium (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) for almost double the cooking times.

Microwave asparagus until it's slightly crisp when pierced with a fork or cut with a knife. Allow it to stand, still tightly covered, 3 to 5 minutes. During that time asparagus will finish cooking and tenderize. After this standing time, test for final doneness. If not done, microwave 30 to 60 seconds longer (or more for large amounts), but be cautious. Overcooked asparagus is rubbery and stringy.

Today's recipes feature asparagus two ways. Basic directions for microwaving asparagus spears and cut pieces of asparagus are given in the recipe for Asparagus With Pimento Sauce. Made with spears, this is an elegant-looking vegetable dish. Made with cut pieces, it's more homely looking. Either way, the pretty bright colors make this a welcome dish to add to any spring meal. Serve it hot as a vegetable. Or serve cut pieces at room temperature as a salad, and spears as a sit-down appetizer for a formal dinner.

Asparagus With Sausages and Pasta shows just how versatile asparagus can be, and how easy it is to microwave a "from scratch" spaghetti sauce. This sauce isn't your traditional thick tomato sauce, but rather a light-tasting, cheerful-looking springtime topping. Asparagus combined with other vegetables micro-cooked in minutes to a tender-crisp in this and other vegetable combinations. Note that waxed paper is used as a cover in this recipe, to help give the mixture a tender-crisp result. If you like more tender vegetables, use a tight cover such as plastic wrap or a well-fitting casserole lid. As usual, standing time is important. In this recipe, asparagus will tenderize, but also the mixture will form more liquid to make a tasty sauce.

Asparagus With Pimento Sauce

1 pound asparagus (16-24 medium-sized spears)
2 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil
2 green onions, white parts only, chopped
½ teaspoon Dijon mustard
Dash hot pepper sauce
1 jar (2 ounces) diced pimento, drained

Wash asparagus well. Snap off tough ends and discard. Hold tips evenly together and cut off bottom ends so spears are about 6 inches long. (Save remaining ends for another use.) Place asparagus in microwave-safe 6x11-inch rectangular dish or loaf dish, arranging so asparagus tips are to center and stem ends to outside edge of dish. Cover with plastic wrap. Microwave (High) 3 to 4 minutes or until tender-crisp when pierced with fork. Let stand, covered, 2 to 5 minutes or while making Pimento Sauce.

Place oil and onions in small microwave-safe dish. Microwave (High) 45 to 60 seconds or until onions are tender. Stir in Dijon mustard and pepper sauce until smooth. Gently stir in pimento. Drain asparagus; top with Pimento Sauce. Serve hot as vegetable or at room temperature for a first course. Makes 4 servings.

With cut pieces: Wash asparagus well. Snap off tough stem ends and discard. Cut tip ends 2 inches long and remaining stems 1-1/2 inches long. There should be about 4 cups. Place asparagus in casserole with water. Cover with plastic wrap or lid. Microwave (High) 4 to 5 minutes or until asparagus is barely tender, stirring after 2 minutes. Let stand, covered, 2 to 5 minutes. Drain well and stir in Pimento Sauce. Serve hot as a vegetable or at room temperature for a salad. Makes 4 servings.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

During my visit to Ireland with my husband, we visited several dairy farms as the tour was sponsored by the American Dairy Association.

On our way to Kilkenny we stopped at the Walshe family farm where they milked 64 cows. Their 75-acre farm was all in permanent pasture. So you can understand why Ireland is noted for the color "green." Most of their farm buildings were over 200 years old and had a grey stucco-like appearance. We had a lunch of soup, scones, tea and apple tarts in the farmhouse.

Everywhere we went we saw stone fences—in the country and surrounding small yards in the cities. In 1845 to 1850 there was a severe potato famine in Ireland. Millions died of starvation and other millions emigrated to other countries. At that time large land owners paid one cent a day to laborers to build stone fences. They could then spend their one cent for food at a soup kitchen in order to survive.

Our next stop was the Avonmore Co-op. at Ballyragget. It was a large complex of 18 buildings and we wore white coats and caps as we walked through a cold rain from one building to another. Here they manufactured cheese, butter, casein and milk powders. The plant was established in 1967 and has 11,000 farmer shareholders.

Agriculture is the most important single industry in Ireland. Cattle is number one and milk is number two. Seventy percent of their production is exported.

Even though they speak English, their accent is so strong that often it is difficult to understand what is said. We talked to several Irish people and could at least get the gist of the conversation.

The next day we visited the Littleton Peat Briquette Factory. Here we walked through black, wet, powdery peat into many buildings. We climbed up steep steps to see how they dried the one-half inch of peat that they cut off of their 2,000 acres of bogs. The peat is compressed into small, long blocks and burned in fireplaces.

Our next stop was at a farm where the farmwife had started a cheese business in her kitchen. She sold a soft cheese under the name of "Cooleeney" and it was packaged in small, round wooden boxes that school children made for her on Saturday. A new building was recently erected where they make 80 pounds per day.

We saw farmers delivering milk to their co-operative by pulling a bulk tank on wheels behind a tractor. The hillsides were covered with sheep and lambs.

Quilted seed bags have become the current rage. Ruth Nissley, right, and Anna Longenecker, display some of the seed bags that they have quilted for the annual benefit auction at Kraybill Mennonite School.

What's New? What's Hot On The Auction Block?

BY LOU ANN GOOD

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster) — You've heard, "Save it, keep it, it's sure to be in style again someday."

The latest item to gain a resurgence of interest is the cotton feed bag. Those stamped with logos and advertisements, especially if the company is extinct, are being swept up by collectors.

Women are quilting them with precise tiny stitches around the letters and logos. Some prefer to stuff them with wood shavings and tie them to imitate old-fashioned bags.

And what do they sell for? Bids have been heard to reach the $1,000 mark.

If you saved them, consider yourself thrifty. If not, pull out your purse and head to the annual benefit auction at Kraybill Mennonite School, Mount Joy, on Saturday, May 13, from 9:00 a.m. until closing.

Patrons of the school with the help of auctioneer Cassel Mumma have rounded up an assortment of bags, which have been quilted and stuffed.

There are sugar bags from Franklin, and feed bags from Hoffman Farm Seeds, 1899 Landisville; Reist, Pioneer from Mount Joy; Eshelman Laying Mash; Rohrer's Farm Seeds; Columbiana Seed from Illinois and more.

If feed bags do not entice you, the auction features plenty of other items that may. There are quilts, crafts, food, Winross trucks, paintings, mulch, an outdoor wooden playhouse with sandbox and more.

The Hot Line!

Elise climbed up on her kitchen stool and picked up the round knob of the lid to the small saucepan. It "rang" as she knocked it against the side of the pan and instantly it became a telephone. Now with the lid to her ear, her imagination whirled as she had a conversation with the lid.

Later that same evening, this one and a half year old entertained herself at a telephone booth while waiting patiently for her daddy's meeting to end.

Parents with older children tell me that this is just the beginning of the use of the hot line. I must admit my own addiction to it in my teen years.

While the telephone is just an accepted convenience in many of our lives, the telephone also represents a lifeline to information, help, and comfort to children when they are alone.

Do your children know how to use the telephone and what to say when a call comes in? Calls to parents and friends provide answers to questions and maybe needed reassurance when parents are at work. They also help prevent distress and boredom. When emergencies arise, the phone provides immediate contact with adults who can help. Whether parents are both working or not, telephone skills are a life skill that should be learned as early as possible.

The phone can also be a source of fear. Obscene phone calls and questioning by strangers sometimes frighten children or adults who are home alone. Children who improperly give out information may be placing themselves at risk for assault or theft. For all of these reasons, it is essential that children have access to emergency phone numbers; know how to make emergency calls; and know how to respond appropriately to callers.

It is important that your child understand the proper procedures for making emergency calls. Create a list of emergency numbers and post it by your phone. This list should include the fire department, police department, poison control center, ambulance, doctor, work numbers and nearby neighbors or friends who could help. Talk to your child about situations that represent emergencies. Discuss what you would like your child to do in each situation and who, if anyone, should be called. Knowing how to handle such situations and who to call will give your child confidence when alone.

If you already have a listing of emergency phone numbers listed, check to see that they are still accurate. For example, fairly recently the Lancaster poison control number changed to 531-6111. Are there other numbers on your list that have changed?

Also, instructions need to be provided on how to answer the phone whether home alone or not. Begin by saying only "hello." Provide no information to the caller. Do not tell anyone you are alone. Offer to take a message and write it down. Be polite

It is important that your child not lie. Statements such as "My father can't come to the phone right now," or "May I take a message" represent truthful and helpful statements. When faced with persistent questioning or obscene phone calls, your child should hang up and call the parent. You can help your child practice these skills by role-playing situations such as pretending you are a salesperson calling to check a delivery date or a friend from church and you want some information about a meeting.

By identifying and posting important phone numbers, helping your child understand what to do and who to call in various situations and how to respond to phone calls, your child will gain confidence in the ability to handle situations.

This is also a good opportunity to discuss general phone usage. Establish some general rules concerning the use of the phone such as how long one can be on the phone and when your child is expected to call you.

The other reminder for each of us as parents is to be a good model. Compliment your children when they have done a good job in reporting a phone message or have handled a phone call well.

For now, it's just fun hearing my little chatterbox "dial up" her mommy on the pan lid. But, it won't belong before she's hanging up the lid and dialing her grammy and grandpap long distance on the real thing. One can only hope this love for the phone doesn't continue through the teen years or is that genetically passed along too!

Meet The Old Fogies

BY LOU ANN GOOD

MARIETTA (Lancaster) — "Welcome to the Olde Fogie Farm," Biz Fogie welcomes guests at the door of their Marietta farmhouse.

The 21-acre farmette features a Old MacDonald-like farm complete with goats Daisey, Sunny and Yahoo. Steers, Polly and Billy chew their cud while Freddie the cat and Homer the dog wander about. Old Amos and two other horses keep company with two pigs. There is 12 to 20 sheep, three setting ducks, about 30 chickens and a couple of good crowers to wake up guests.

Tom Fogie is the farmer. His wife, Biz, the farmist and Tom Jr., a genuine farm boy offer tourists a bed and breakfast and a chance to unwind by getting involved in farm activities.

"Last year 113 kids and 98 adults helped us milk a goat, gather eggs, pet a pig, ride a farm wagon and do the chores," Biz said.

"City folks hear about Olde MacDonald Farm's and ours fits the picture perfectly." She said, "Nowadays a lot of farms aren't really farms; they're hog and chicken penitentiaries."

Although Biz admits that modern farmers might scoff at the Olde Fogie Farm's quaint farming methods, she staunchly defends them. "We have sort of a Ma and Pa Kettle operation here. We have plenty of fresh sunshine and fresh air and the chickens eat the bugs. I sleep better the way we do things."

The way they do things means no chemicals and pesticides.

They raise asparagus, strawberries, and raspberries without pesticides.

"People insisted there's no way to raise asparagus without pesticides, but we raise four acres without any trouble," Biz said. Their secret: they have 15 guineas who march up and down the rows and eat the beetles.

When the Fogies moved on their farm 28 years ago, they did not intend to farm organically. The first thing they wanted was a beautiful green grass. "We purchased a name brand that promised to kill weeds and produce a velvet lawn," Biz said. "We put the stuff on and one by one our cat and her four lovely kittens died."

Alarmed, Biz read the label on their lawn care products. It warned that cats, birds and children should be kept off the lawn for five days after use.

"That's potent stuff and people wonder why they're getting sick and allergies," she said.

The Fogies started living according to what Biz calls "the natural way." Although 50 years-old, Biz often passes for in her 30s. She credits it to "no sugar, Coke® or junk food."

"I don't mind being an Olde Fogie as long as I don't look like one," Biz said.

The Fogies started their farming operation by raising tobacco because they wanted a money crop. After several years, Biz protested, "Who cares if we're raising organic tobacco? I care about where it is going. I don't want to contribute any longer to harming people."

Her husband asked, "What will we raise?"

Biz answered, "Strawberries."

For seven or eight years the Fogies have been raising about three acres of strawberries.

"Other growers spend money putting on chemicals," Biz said. "We spend time hoeing weeds."

She insists their efforts result in sweeter flavor.

"Some people say it's unheard of to raise alfalfa without chemicals, but insects don't come unless the ground is sick," Biz maintains. "We built the ground up and we don't have any trouble. We want the ground to be happy and do what it is supposed to do."

She said, "If you give the ground calcium, lime and some black strap molasses you don't have a weed problem." They do some irrigation, especially during droughts.

Biz Fogie loves to cook on what she refers to as her "Amish stove." She said they had baseboard heat put into their home, but couldn't stand it because there was no place to warm your feet on cold winter days.

"Imagine, there are some farmers who don't ever raise a garden," Biz states. "What is a farmer if he doesn't even have a garden?" She adds the reason farmers can't make a living is because they want to live like the city people do with their sandblasted houses and macadam driveways."

The Fogies believe in being resourceful. They fixed up their home and an efficency apartment for guests by using old barnwood, discarded doors and other peoples' cast-offs. The knots in the sanded barn wood door is "a peep hole in the bathroom for honeymooners."

Stenciled floors, doors and walls are the artistic touch of the Biz's 28-year-old daughter, Vicki. Guest rooms have names. The bright yellow room is called "The Sunny Room." Their son's room is stenciled with trains and christened the "Choo Choo Room," and there's the "Old Fogie Room" and a hideaway in the barn.

In keeping with the Fogies' lifestyle, shelves in the kitchen and in the efficiency apartment hold jars stuffed with spices and herbs. Pots and an egg basket hang from the ceiling. A secluded porch offers guests time to relax. Posters touting health food and a healthy environment are tacked to some of the walls.

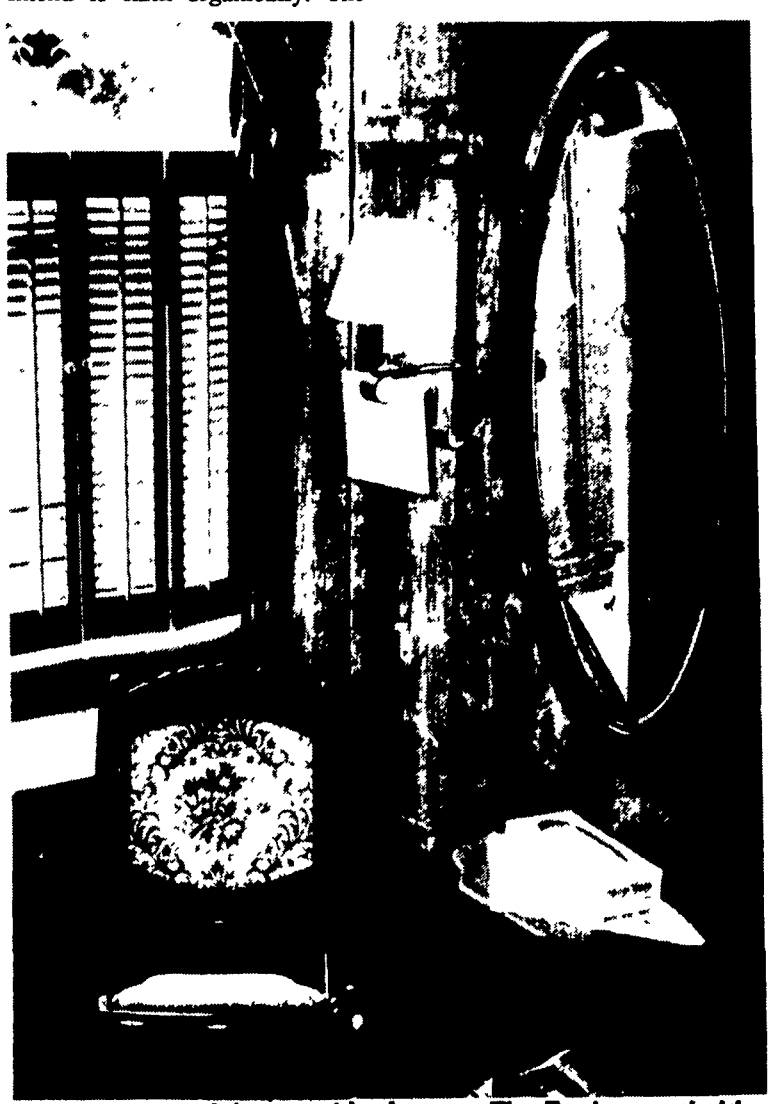
"We're not young enough to be hippies, but we have the hippie philosophy when it comes to caring for the land," Biz said.

The Fogies are members of the PA Farm Vacation and PA Dutch Bureau. They mostly entertain in the summer because they have no upstairs heat in the winter. She said, "We tell guests, 'You're welcome in the winter but we warn you, you'll need to crack the ice when you get out of bed in the morning.'"

Biz is head of the membership drive for the farm vacation organization. She said, "We need other farm families to open their homes to tourists. It's so rewarding. These families become friends and keep in close contact."

Biz offers to speak to groups across Pennsylvania about the program. She also entertains by singing Broadway hits and Folk songs.

The efficency apartment for guests comes complete with all the utensils needed to cook your own meals.



This is one of the guest bedrooms. The Fogies used old barnwood for the walls and used "other people's discards to furnish it."

Five-year-old Willie, grandson of the Fogies, spends much of his time on the farm with dog Homer.

If you would like to know about the farm vacation program, contact Biz at R.D. 1, Box 166, Marietta, PA 17457 or call 717 426-3992.

The third year group winners were recognized by club Leader Myron Young as follows: first place honors went to Benjamin Zaiger, Chambersburg; second place to Titus Hess, Chambersburg; and third place honors went to Ivan Hissong, Greencastle. In addition, all third-year members received the symbolic 4-H tractor trophy that signifies their having completed all three years of the 4-H tractor club program.

An excellent program was presented by former tractor club members Rick Hissong and Regina Christman who attended the Governors School of Science and Agriculture in 1988. A video program supplemented by personal remarks highlighted the unique aspects at this outstanding educational program. 4-H members were encouraged to apply for the annual scholarships that support this event.

These Franklin County 4-H'ers were honored by the county 4-H Tractor Club for their accomplishments. They are, from left, seated: first-year winners Simon Zaiger, Samuel Myers, and Solomon Hess; standing: second-year winners Jennifer Rosenberry, Melanie Burkholder, and Nathan Burkholder and third-year winners Ben Zaiger, Titus Hess, and Ivan Hissong.

York County Lamb

The York County 4-H Lamb Club met on April 4. Fifty-five members attended the meeting held at 4-H Leader Ed Keeney's home.

He and his wife showed the 4-H'ers what to look for in picking out their market lambs. Work sheets were assigned for the food stand at the York Co. Sheep and Wool Festival.

Money was donated to the Pennsylvania room. It was brought to the attention that animal rights activists may raise questions about fitting and general care for their lambs.

The next meeting will be held at Marlan Klinedinst's home on May 5. The leaders will be showing the 4-H'ers feed and management.

Lebanon County Capital Days

Lebanon County Sheep

Last month the Lebanon County 4-H Sheep Club met at the Lebanon Municipal Building. There were 17 members present. This meeting was held with the Pig Club. The Sheep Club met before the meeting officially started to fill out enrollment cards.

Items discussed were, whether or not to go to the Stavers Farm in Hershey. This would include walking through the fields and the barn, and looking at their Dorset sheep. It was decided that we would take this trip on April 22nd.

It also was asked if anyone would be interested in going to the Maryland Sheep and Wool Festival. A paper was passed around for members interested, to sign. It will be held, Saturday, May 6 and 7.

June and July meetings will be all fair preparation. It was suggested that Greg Snyder give a demonstration on blocking and grooming of a sheep.

After the Sheep Club reorganization, the two clubs grouped together. Judy Atkins, the Pig Club leader, explained about the activity planned. There were five stations set up. The first station was where you were to identify the organ displayed, (liver, tongue) and the animal it came from (hog, sheep, or steer). At the second station you had to identify the species of animal, and the type of meat cut. At the third station you were to identify the breeds, (Duroc, Holstein, or Suffolk, etc.) from which clues were given. The fourth station was feeds. You were to identify what kind of feed was displayed, such as hay, silage, or corn, etc. The fifth and final station was identifying equipment. You had five minutes to complete all the questions at each station. The highest possible score was 80. Eric Harnish achieved the highest score of 73.

Lebanon County 4-H members met with area legislators and other government officials during State 4-H Capital Days activities in Harrisburg, April 3-4.

Four-H'ers participating in the citizenship program from Lebanon County were Ralph Major, Jonestown; Christine Nagle, Annville; and Stephanie Nagle, Annville.

While in Harrisburg, they received a guided tour of the State Capitol Building and the Governor's Mansion, visited local legislators in their offices, and participated in educational workshops geared to increase their understanding of the legislative process.

The 4-H members also visited the Department of Transportation and the State Police Headquarters.

Senators and representatives were guests of the county delegation at a legislative breakfast. Four-H members and lawmakers discussed local issues and defined the purpose of the 4-H educational youth program.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Wayne County Dairy

The 4-H dairy project continues to be a popular 4-H project among Wayne County 4-H members.

The opportunity to feed, manage and care for a project animal is very challenging and satisfying to these 4-H members.

Young people considering this 4-H project should keep the following requirements in mind: a barn or shed to house the project animal, an adequate supply of hay and possibly some type of silage, ability to purchase needed supplies of calf starter feeds, milk replacer and cow feed, straw or sawdust for bedding, barn equipment like forks, shovels and neck straps and chains plus other equipment for grooming, cleaning and exhibiting the project animal at different 4-H dairy shows.

4-H dairy animals have an opportunity to select a project animal from one of six dairy cattle breeds. They include: Jersey, Holstein, Guernsey, Ayrshire, Brown Swiss and Milking Shorthorn. Which breed the 4-H'er selects will depend on the availability of project animals in their home area, personal preference of breeds and popularity of that breed in the 4-H'ers home area.

Selection of a project animal is an important task for the 4-H member. Most 4-H dairy members start with a young dairy calf, usually a calf in one of the three youngest calf classes.

The different show classes to consider when selecting project animals includes:

Junior Calf - born between March 1, 1989 and May 31, 1989.

Intermediate Calf - born between December 1, 1988 and February 28, 1989.

Senior Calf - born between September 1, 1988 and November 30, 1988.

Summer Yearling - born between June 1, 1988 and August 31, 1988.

Junior Yearling - born between March 1, 1988 and May 31, 1988.

Intermediate Yearling - born between December 1, 1987 and February 29, 1988.

Senior Yearling - born between September 1, 1987 and November 30, 1987.

Dry Cow, Senior 2 Year Old and Older - born before March 1, 1985.

Junior Two Year Old Cow - born between March 1, 1987 and August 31, 1987.

Senior Two Year Old Cow - born between September 1, 1986 and February 28, 1987.

Three Year Old Cow - born between September 1, 1985 and August 31, 1986.

Four Year Old Cow - born between September 1, 1984 and August 31, 1985.

Five Years and Over Cow - born before September 1, 1984.

There are some deadlines to keep in mind in reference to registering and transferring 4-H dairy project animals. Project animals that are bred and owned by the 4-H member must be registered in the 4-H'ers name by the date of the 4-H show. Purchased 4-H dairy project animals are treated differently. Senior yearling or younger project animals that have been purchased by the 4-H member as 4-H project animals must be registered and transferred into the 4-H'ers name by May 1, 1989. Older project animals that have been purchased, any Junior Two Year Old Cow and Older, must have been registered and transferred into the 4-H member's name as of January 1, 1989.

The actual selection of a 4-H dairy project animal is an exciting experience for a 4-H member. 4-H members should try to select project animals that are well-grown for their age, show good type or body conformation and are born in the early months of any given show class. These animals tend to show better, at least, for the first year. The main responsibility for the 4-H dairy project member then is to see that the calf gets off to a good start with proper and adequate feeding, is kept healthy and is allowed to grow to its full potential.

The 4-H member must keep a record book on every 4-H dairy project animal. The 4-H record book is considered to be an important part of the 4-H project. Entries in the project book would include information on the animal's pedigree, health and growth records, feed records and expenses, total income and expenses for the animal plus other information like the animal's exhibition record.

4-H members have a number of opportunities to exhibit their 4-H dairy project animals. This is usually the highlight of each project year. Wayne County 4-H dairy members have an opportunity to exhibit their project animals at the Wayne County Junior Dairy Show, the Wayne District Black and White Show and the Wayne County Open Dairy Show. Other shows nearby are the Greene-Dreher-Sterling Fair 4-H and Open Dairy Shows and the dairy shows associated with the Harford and Luzerne County Fairs.

4-H dairy members receiving blue ribbons for type with their project animals, at the Wayne County Junior Dairy Show, are eligible to compete in the Northeast District 4-H Dairy Show. From here, blue ribbon type winners are eligible for statewide competition at the annual Pennsylvania State Junior Dairy Show. This 4-H show is usually held in late September at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg, Pa.

The 4-H dairy project does offer a lot of opportunities to young people. They have the opportunity to learn how to properly select project animals, how to feed, manage and care for each dairy animal, how to groom and exhibit the animal in competition and also how to keep accurate records on the animal.

If you are a young person here in Wayne County with an interest in taking this 4-H project or would like to obtain some additional information about the project, please call the Wayne County Extension Office by dialing 253-5970, extension 239 or you can visit the Extension Office which is located in the basement of the Wayne County Courthouse in Honesdale, Pa.

York Extension Meets Challenges

YORK — Penn State's Dean of Agriculture and a long-time 4-H leadership couple shared the spotlight at York County Extension's annual meeting, held March 31 at the Stewartstown Fire Hall.

Dean of Agriculture Dr. Lamartine F. Hood addressed challenges facing the extension service in adapting programs to suit changing needs of the service's clientele.

Multi-county agents, specialists in particular fields who serve a larger population and area than the traditional one county, is one response of Extension to urgent issues.

"We also realized that many of those issues - such as water quality, family financial management and nutrition - cut across traditional extension program lines and required a fairly high level of specialization to address effectively," Hood told the more than 200 attending.

"While it isn't practical to hire a person who specializes in one area to work in a single county, it is practical to hire one to work in several counties. It allows us to address regional issues on a region basis, and it also allows us to hire people who are very knowledgeable about these issues," he explained.

York County presently is served by seven multi-county agents, with two additional specialists planned for particular fields of expertise.

Dr. Hood also addressed the need for research as a foundation for extension programs, and reorganization within the Penn State Cooperative Extensive organization to better serve the state's citizenry.

Paul and Sharon Ebaugh were named recipients of the Outstanding Extension Involvement award. Lifelong farmers, the Ebaughs have served extension in a variety of committee and leadership capacities, including active supporters of the 4-H programs.

Highlights of the York Extension's programs for the year included 4-H Dale Carnegie course, school enrichment and Hispanic youth programs, day care and home-based business seminars, drought assistance, fresh produce directory, tax reassessment informational meetings and assistance to farmers in implementing ag security district in 25 townships.

Livestock Ledger

By
Chester D. Hughes
Extension Livestock Specialist

Getting started in the livestock business

For many folks, the spring season triggers an urge to undertake a new and exciting project or interest. It is the season for a fresh start; an opportunity to fix up, improve and repair, or begin a totally new opportunity. There is especially something special about the rapid growth of lush spring grasses that stimulates country people to begin an adventure in livestock production. Let's take a simple look at a few livestock enterprises that you may want to consider as part-time projects beginning during May.

The sheep business

"Grow into the sheep business; do not get into it." This statement is especially important for the person with limited experience. A one-ram flock (30 to 50 ewes) will provide plenty of on-the-job training and some secondary income to start. Thereafter, flock size should depend on the resources at hand, mainly capital, labor, feed, and management ability. My advice is to start out with six to 10 ewes to see if you really are interested in raising sheep. Sheep do not require elaborate housing and do best if kept outside under most conditions. Indeed, other than winter lambing, a ewe needs little or no barn shelter.

However, most sheep farms have a barn of some type that can provide shelter, store feed, and provide a dry, draft-free, sanitary environment for the lambing ewe. Fencing is probably a more important and more costly investment for the sheep producer.

A well-managed sheep enterprise should net 80 percent of its receipts from the sale of lamb and 20 percent from wool sales. Breed differences will, of course, influence these ratios, and there are more than 200 breeds of sheep in the world from which to choose. Spend some time learning about the advantages and disadvantages of the various breeds before beginning a sheep enterprise.

Beef cow/calf operation

The beef cow/calf operation often is typified as an enterprise that does not demand intensive labor and management expertise, requires an abundance of forage, but provides only limited profit potential and can be justified only in geographical areas where alternative enterprises are limited and land values low.

A university survey once indicated that the decision for many to begin a beef cow/calf operation was based primarily on the two elements of fulfilling a personal desire and to utilize land and buildings that were available.

Since a beef herd is a long-term investment and considerable time is required to attain your objectives, you should decide whether you would like to be a purebred breeder or a commercial producer. The registered, purebred breeder maintains a beef cow herd to develop and provide superior seedstock for other cattlemen. The commercial producer maintains a beef herd to provide feeder calves to be fed out for slaughter. Again, there is a question of what breed or breeds should you build your beef program around and where to purchase them. Adequate feed, water, and fencing are very important, and beef cows, like sheep, do not need elaborate housing.

It is usually best for the beginner to buy bred cows that have had at least one calf. This eliminates having to get them bred the first time, and reduces potential calving problems associated with first-calf heifers.

The size of an operation needed for success on a part-time basis depends on what costs must be charged against the beef herd and what your goals may be!

Pork production systems

Although pork production doesn't require the lush spring grass that was mentioned earlier, hog are being raised in all 50 states.

Swine are raised under many different systems of production, sizes of operation, combinations of facilities, and management techniques. It would be nearly impossible to describe all the different techniques and facilities being used today in hog production.

There are, however, eight basic systems that seem to encompass the relevant choices, and most of these require extensive housing needs unlike the beef and sheep enterprises. Following is an outline of the eight basic pork production systems:

A. Sow herd enterprises
1. Feeder pig production operations
a. low-investment system
b. high-investment system
2. Farrow-to-finish operations
a. one-litter pasture system
b. two-litter pasture system
c. low-investment confinement system
d. high-investment confinement system

B. Feeder pig finishing enterprises
1. low-investment system
2. high-investment system

If you are planning to enter the hog business, you may want to discuss with a swine specialist the alternatives of each of these systems before selecting an enterprise that fits your situation.

In summary, I would urge you to visit your county extension office for information regarding "getting started" in any of the aforementioned livestock enterprises. Good luck!

Chore-Time's ULTRAFLO® feeder can free you from your chains

We have probably been too modest up to now about the merits of our new generation ULTRAFLO® cage feeder vs. the old style chain feeders some of our competitors are still trying to sell you. In fact, the only negative comments about our feeder come from our competition, not our customers. So we would like to point out the bare facts:

FEED SAVINGS: On-farm results show a feed savings of ½ lb. per 100 birds per day – over $10,000 per year savings on a 100,000-bird house. Year after year.

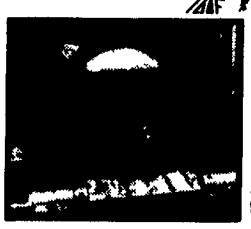
TROUBLE-FREE DESIGN: Our feeder has only two moving parts – the one-piece auger plus each drive wheel; their chain has more. Our corners are heavy 12 ga. zinc plated tubing for long life; their corners have a reputation for trouble and short life.

PROVEN DESIGN: Over 10 million birds are already on our feeder worldwide. Also, it was proven in 5 years of on-farm testing before introduction.

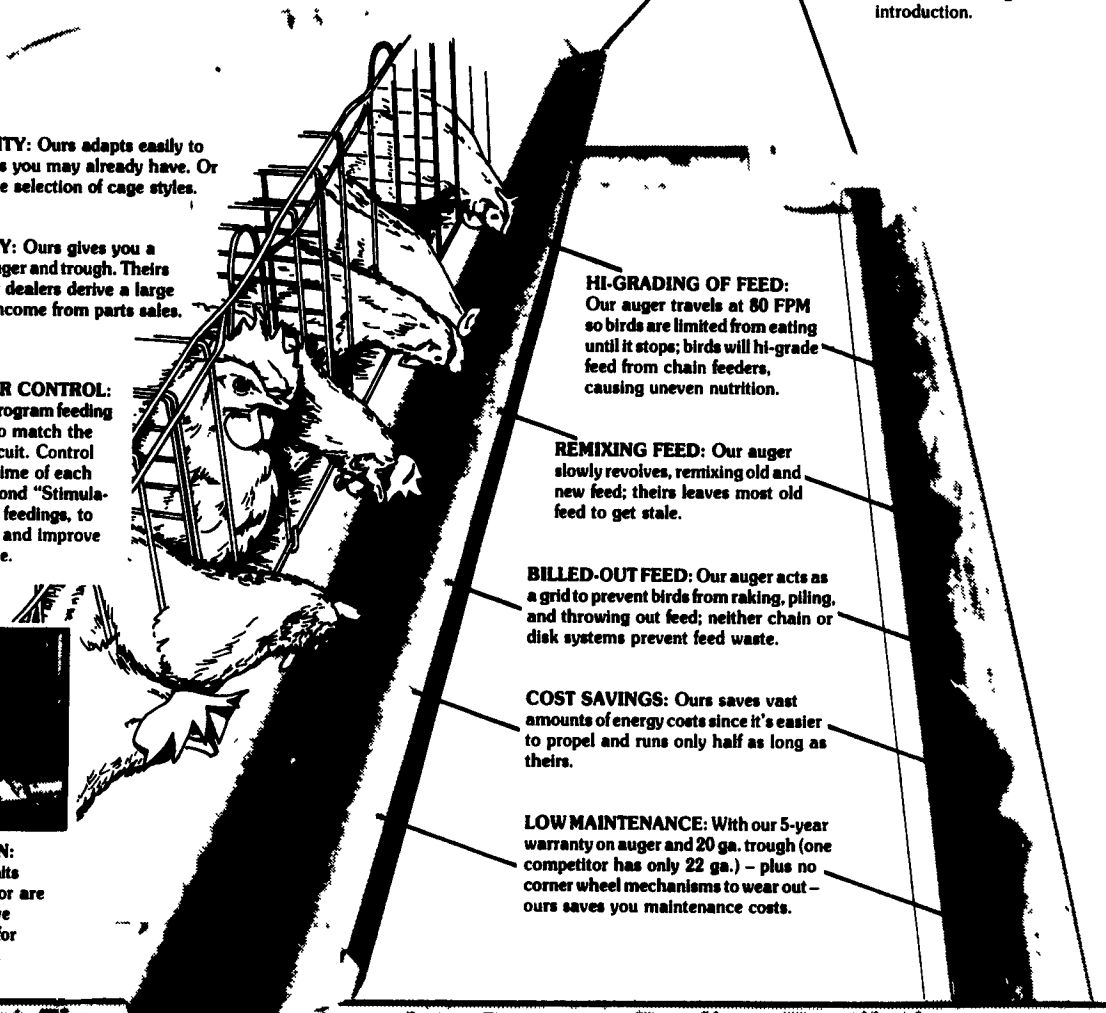
EASY ADAPTABILITY: Ours adapts easily to existing cage systems you may already have. Or choose from our wide selection of cage styles.

5-YEAR WARRANTY: Ours gives you a 5-year warranty on auger and trough. Theirs doesn't. In fact, their dealers derive a large percentage of their income from parts sales. Ours don't.

MICROPROCESSOR CONTROL: Our control lets you program feeding time to the second, to match the exact time of one circuit. Control number of feedings, time of each feeding – also 10-second "Stimulation Cycles" between feedings, to minimize separation, and improve your birds' feed intake.



SIMPLE OPERATION: "Push-pull" Power Units with ⅓ or ½ HP motor are located in a cage, have hardened steel gears for trouble-free operation.



HI-GRADING OF FEED: Our auger travels at 80 FPM so birds are limited from eating until it stops; birds will hi-grade feed from chain feeders, causing uneven nutrition.

REMIXING FEED: Our auger slowly revolves, remixing old and new feed; theirs leaves most old feed to get stale.

BILLED-OUT FEED: Our auger acts as a grid to prevent birds from raking, piling, and throwing out feed; neither chain or disk systems prevent feed waste.

COST SAVINGS: Ours saves vast amounts of energy costs since it's easier to propel and runs only half as long as theirs.

LOW MAINTENANCE: With our 5-year warranty on auger and 20 ga. trough (one competitor has only 22 ga.) – plus no corner wheel mechanisms to wear out – ours saves you maintenance costs.

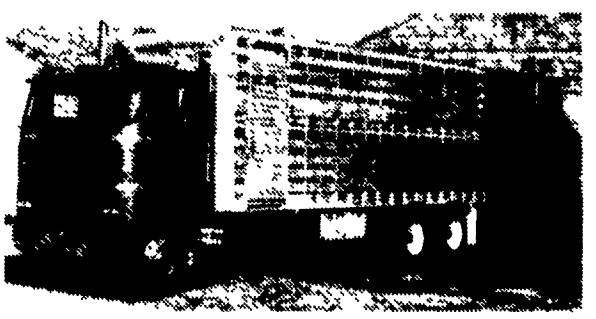
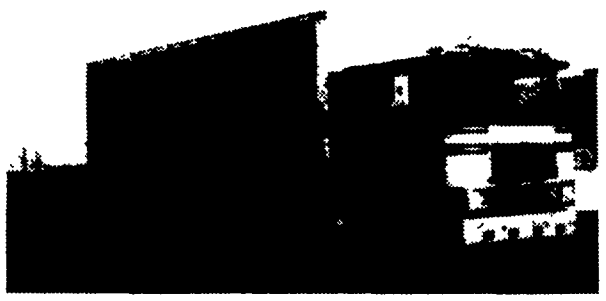
An Eby grain body is surprisingly affordable and built for the long haul.

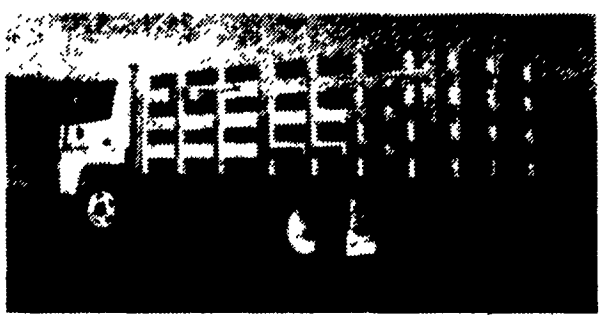


Reliable Eby livestock bodies are now aerodynamically designed.

Eby's bolt-on extends the usefulness of your pickup for minimal investment.



A chicken body built to keep your birds dry and protected.



Eby stake body is the right choice for farm or commercial use.

Consider an Eby bulk body for reliability and ease of use.

Aluminum Bodies for the Agri-Industry

Back in 1938, when Menno Eby Sr. began making wagons and cattle trucks, he was determined to give farmers strong, wooden truck bodies at a competitive price.

Some things change. Others stay the same.

Today, M. H. Eby, Inc. produces a wide variety of sturdy and reliable truck bodies for agri-business. Everything from livestock bodies through stake bodies to grain and bulk bodies. All at competitive prices.

But now every Eby body is all-aluminum. Consider some of the advantages you get over traditional wood and steel construction:

- As much as 50% lighter — allows for increased payloads.
- It will never rust through or rot.
- No need to paint.
- Overall maintenance costs are greatly reduced.
- Just an occasional power washing keeps aluminum bodies looking new for years.
- They have much better resale value.

What's more, you can always tell Eby what you want on your body. Everything we make is custom-built. A long list of options available for every body style allows you to design the body you need for your operation.

Give us a call, or write, to find out more about the lightweight alternative.

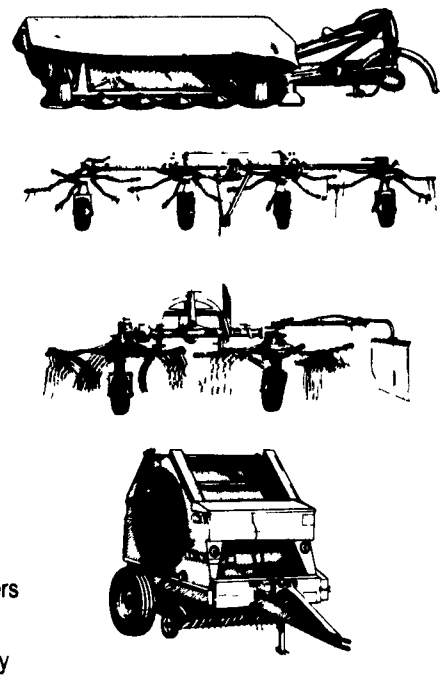
MORE LEAF IN YOUR HAY
MORE HAY IN YOUR BALE
MORE BUCKS IN YOUR BARN



Krone Niemeyer Hay Tools are specifically designed to allow the grower to harvest a higher quality of hay. This is accomplished by reducing drying time, handling the crop more gently and baling more of the leaf. The result is less leaf and nutrient loss.

The KR series of balers are available in six models and four sizes ranging from 3'D x 4'W to 6'D x 5'W. Advantages are.

- 1/3 fewer moving parts reduces horsepower required
- No Belts or Rollers means less maintenance
- Enclosed chamber means less leaf loss
- Optional Net Wrap on 4 Models offers up to twice as many bales per hour

MAY-CO PLASTIC SILO LINERS

Mold free haylage and ryelage can only be obtained in an oxygen free container. This kind of ferment can be reached by installing a May-Co Plastic Silo Liner. This eliminates molding and heating while unloading silo.

S & S SILO SERVICE

ATTENTION FARMERS
Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete

S & S Silo Service Has Experience
Over 160 Silos Have Been Relined With Shotcrete

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.
The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

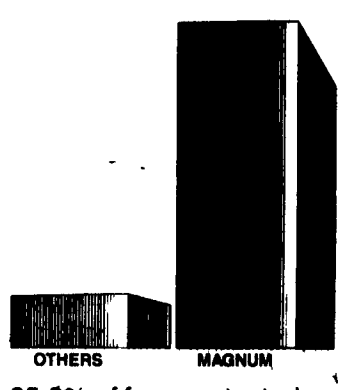
What farmers are saying about Case IH MAGNUM tractors.

Recently, several hundred farmers were invited to test MAGNUM tractors on their own farms. After they had used the tractors an average of 36 hours, they were asked to compare the engine, transmission, cab, hydraulics and serviceability to their current tractors.

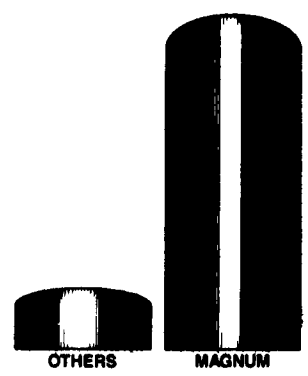
MAGNUM won overwhelmingly in every category.

The users reported: 85.3% said that the engine powered its way to the top; 91.0% said that MAGNUM cab was a comfortable winner; and 85.7% judged the powershift transmission to be smoothly superior.

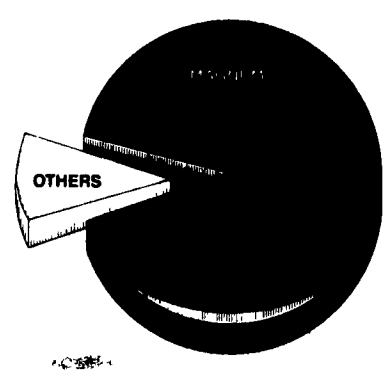
Over-all MAGNUM was preferred by a whopping 84.9% over a strong field that included John Deere, Ford, White and Deutz-Allis models. How does MAGNUM compare with your tractor? You'll never know until you take your own test drive. Ask about a demonstration on your farm.



85.3% of farmers tested rated MAGNUM engine lugging ability, fuel economy and over-all performance better than their tractor.



91.0% judged the MAGNUM cab superior in visibility, quietness, comfort and convenience to their current 100+ hp tractor.



85.7% said the MAGNUM transmission was best in ease of speed selection, smooth shifting and in proper speeds for the job.

MAGNUM means more. Let us show you how much more!

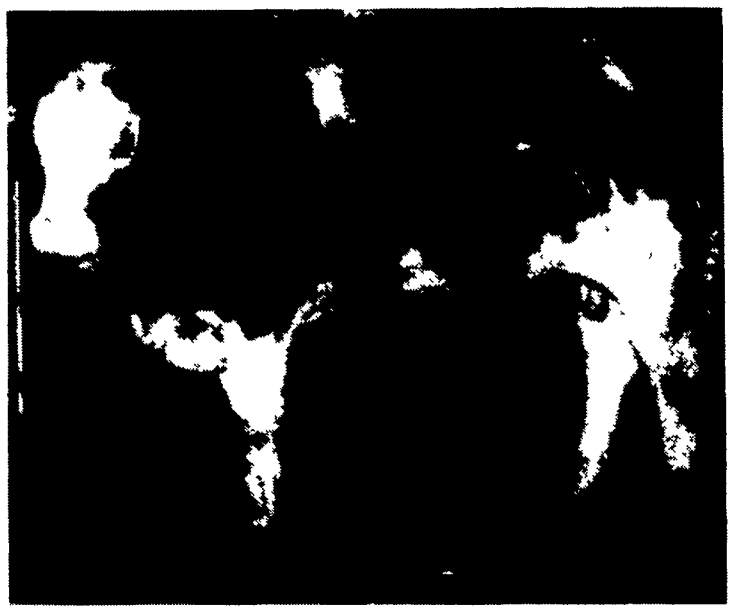
Polled Hereford Bull Top Seller In Performance Sale



The top-selling Simmental bull was consigned by Skytop Farm of Port Matilda. The smooth-polled animal went to William and Santa Kirby of Woodstown, N.J., for $2,100.

STATE COLLEGE (Centre) — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center wishes to announce the results of Pennsylvania's 16th Performance Tested Bull Sale. The sale was conducted March 31 with a tremendous crowd in attendance to appraise the 60 bulls offered for sale. The sale was preceded by remarks from Pennsylvania's Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Neal Buss, among others. There were 104 registered bidders from seven states.

The Polled Hereford bulls again recorded the top breed sale average of the three breeds with the largest number of bulls on test. The 22 Polled Hereford bulls averaged $1,605. The top-selling bull in the sale was the Lot #3 bull, a Polled Hereford from Stony Creek Farm of Troy, selling to Valley View Farms and Sugar Bush Acres, both of W.V., for $4,800. The second-highest selling Polled Hereford was the Falklands Farm consignment that sold to Royce Herrala of Geneva, N.Y., for $3,500. The top-indexing Polled Hereford, consigned by Egleston's Polled Herefords, commanded the third-highest price paid for a Polled Hereford bull. This bull sold to Fred Semrau of Millerstown for $2,800. This bull also collected the trophy presented by the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association to the bull that exhibited the performance, which was the highest above the average of his own breed.

The 18 Black Angus bulls sold for an average of $1,522. The top two indexing Angus bulls also returned the top two sale prices among the Angus bulls with both bulls selling to Watchtower Farms of Wallkill, N.Y. Linkland Farms of Wexford consigned the Angus bull that was second on index but returned the top sale price of the Angus when he garnered a $4,200 bid. This was the second-highest selling animal of the sale. The top-indexing Angus bull, consigned by Indian Creek Farm of Stahlstown, sold for $3,200. Another top-selling Angus bull was the Penn State consignment that sold to Lamar Troup of Beaver Springs for $2,850. The Red Angus bull owned by Crossroads Farm of Ligonier sold to William and Santa Kirby of Woodstown, N.J., for $1,250.

The 14 Simmental bulls were well received with fairly consistent prices. The top-selling Simmental was the smooth-polled bull consigned by Skytop Farm near Port Matilda. This popular bull sold to William and Santa Kirby of Woodstown, N.J., for $2,100. The second highest Simmental was the G & J Valley Farm of Spring Grove consignment that sold to George Robinson of Kreamer for $2,000. The top-indexing Simmental returned the third highest price recorded on a Simmental. This Harvest Plantation bred bull sold to C. Eugene Wingert of Saint Thomas for $1,850.

There were two outstanding Charolais bulls offered for sale, both consigned by Bratton Charolais Farm of McVeytown. These bulls sold to Richard Eigenbrode of Waynesboro for $2,700 and to Jacob M. Bartl of Fayetteville for $2,300.

The two Salers bulls, both consigned by Lyn-Lee Farms of State College, sold to Jere Wingert for $1,025 and to the Rocking D Horse and Cattle Co. of Fredericksburg for $1,050.

The lone Limousin bull sold to Edward Metz of Utica. This Golden Hills Farm-owned bull returned $1,100.

The auctioneer for the sale was Mike Jones of West Point, Ga., and the manager of the sale was Glenn Eberly, director of the Meat Animal Evaluation Center of State College.

NFO Urges Hog Farmers To End Cold-Storage Glut

CORNING, IOWA — "It's time for hog producers to wake up and face the cold storage statistics if we are going to turn this hog market around," NFO President DeVon Woodland announced today.

"It's time that producers started marketing their hogs at reasonable weights, no more than a 240-pound average, and started producing a leaner pork product for consumers if they expect to receive a fair and equitable price at the marketplace," he added.

The hog industry is in a dilemma; one that has been created by both the packing industry and producers, Woodland pointed out. The packing industry, during the past year, has continued to kill hogs at much heavier weights than in the past to put the most meat in their coolers at the cheapest per unit cost. Producers have been feeding this demand and selling overfat hogs on the open market for less than the cost of production for the past seven months.

"This activity has accumulated four-month, back-to-back record supplies of pork in cold storage and the highest level of pork in cold storage ever for the month of April," the NFO president emphasized. "If hog prices rally this summer, it is certain that this unpalatable pork product will start coming out of the freezers to deflate hog prices."

Woodland pointed to a summary by Dr. Russell Schinckel, which was presented at the 1988 National Barrow Show, to illustrate documentation of this occurrence in the pork industry. The study found that the barrows of 1987 and 1988 were fatter and grew slower than the barrows of 1976 and 1978. Lard content had also changed due to genetics over the past 25 years. A 240-pound hog, for instance, has 20 pounds less lard today and 20 pounds more red muscle tissue.

"Based on these statistics and continually declining hog prices, we urge hog producers to start marketing their hogs at lighter weights of not more than 240 pounds," Woodland stressed. "A 10-pound to 12-pound lighter weight would decrease total Federal Inspected Slaughter numbers by 4 percent to 5 percent instantly — a figure that would certainly affect the hog market!

All-American Hereford Expo Planned

KANSAS CITY, MO — The American Junior Hereford Association and American Hereford Association are planning to hold the 1989 All-American Hereford Expo and a cattlemen's conference July 20-22 at AK-SAR-BEN in Omaha.

The All-American Hereford Expo is the largest national junior Hereford Show and this year will be no exception as more than 300 head are expected to converge on Omaha from every corner of the country. Heifer, steer and bred-and-owned heifer entries will compete for $15,000 in premiums. The national showmanship contest, live animal evaluation contest and Hereford Quiz Bowl are other activities highlighting the agenda.

The AHA is putting together a one-day conference that will interest commercial and registered cattlemen alike. The program, to be announced at a later date, will utilize the experience and knowledge of individuals respected in every phase of the cattle industry.

The Nebraska Junior Hereford Association, Nebraska Hereford Association and Nebraska Hereford Auxiliary are co-sponsoring the three-day Omaha event.

A full program is soon to be announced. Other details can be obtained by contacting the American Hereford Association's Department of Information at P.O. Box 104059, Kansas City, MO 64101, telephone 816/842-3757.

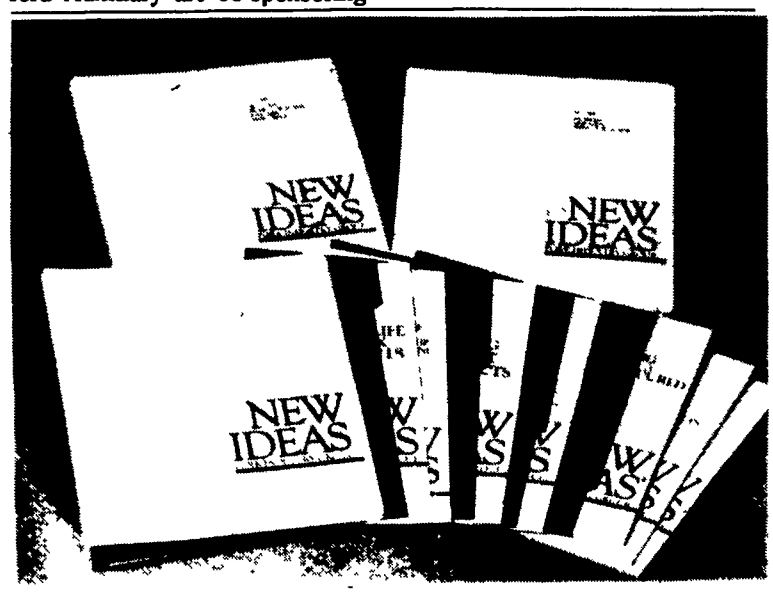
Maple Cove Breeders of Pittsburgh was the volume buyer.

A special presentation was made of honorary lifetime membership certificates to Nick Merryman, Parkton, Md.; Clyde Grossnickle, Myersville, Md.; Wanda Groomes, Gaithersburg, Md.; John Hull, Westminister, Md.; and Bobby Watkins, Damascus, Md.

The Fred Groomes Memorial Scholarship of $1,000 was presented to Trisanne Wrightson of Baldwin, Md.



This three-volume set summarizes recent research findings in a variety of areas including food safety, packaging, nutrition, marketing, and product development of pork. Funded by pork checkoff dollars, it is available for $75 and will be updated as new data is compiled.

Research Results In Pork Reference Manual

CHICAGO, IL — The final, and probably most important, step in the research process is placing research findings in the hands of the people who can make them pay off for the pork industry. To help achieve this goal, the Pork Industry Group of the National Live Stock and Meat Board has developed a manual for packers, processors, marketing executives and scientists.

Called "New Ideas: The Pork Technical Reference Manual," it summarizes recent research findings in a variety of areas including food safety, packaging, nutrition, marketing and product development. The manual is funded by pork checkoff dollars, as is some of the research included in it.

"This project will increase the efficiency of disseminating research information. We are presently conducting a campaign to make sure that we get the manual to meat industry leaders who impact the development of pork products," said Bruce Paterson, Ph.D., director of programs for the pork Industry Group.

The three-volume set, two of which are now completed, is being sold for $75. Additional papers will be added to the manual as new research data is compiled.

"Companies without large research budgets should especially benefit from this manual. Pork producers are providing a service to the meat industry by supplying research information in a number of key areas necessary to launch new products," Paterson said.

The 1,100 members of the American Meat Science Association were recently introduced to the manual, and continuous marketing efforts will reach key thought leaders in the meat industry, such as research and development executives.

The Pork Industry Group conducts demand-building programs in nutrition and product development/meat science research, education and information funded by producer checkoff dollars as well as packer and processor investments. The organization can be contacting by calling (312) 467-5520, or by writing to: Pork Industry Group, 444 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, IL 60611.

Regional Shifts In Poultry Production A Concern

BY MILT MADISON
PENN STATE
PROFESSOR OF
AG ECONOMICS

STATE COLLEGE, (Centre) — Shifts of poultry production between regions is always a concern. Marketing of poultry products from a surplus production region in a deficit production region, causes concern that the surplus region will eventually take all of the market. The rationale behind the concern is that if the surplus production region can compete for markets in the deficit production region they may ship in more of their products every year until local producers are driven out of business.

While other production regions provide stiff competition for Northeast poultry producers, the challenge has been met well. In turkey production the Northeast has held its own. According to data prepared by the USDA, production levels in 1984 and 1987 showed that the Northeast cornered 11 percent of national production in both years. Comparing 1984 and 1987 levels, above average growth in the Carolinas allowed the southeastern region to gain 2 percent of national share from 28 to 30 percent. The Midwest gained 1 percent from 39 to 40 percent, with the most rapid growth reported in Minnesota and Indiana, while the West Coast went from 15 to 14 percent, and the other states (Colorado, Oklahoma, and Texas) lost 2 percent.

For broiler production, information for the years 1983 and 1987 were compared. The southeastern region dominates broiler production and increased its national share form 65 to 66 percent. The Northeast only increased production by 7 percent from 1983 to 1987 while national production increased 20 percent. This resulted in the Northeast losing 2 percent of the national broiler market, going from a 19 to 17 percent share. The Midwest and West Coast held constant with 1 and 12 percent of the national share respectively. The other states, (Indiana, Louisiana, Maine, Missouri, and Tennessee), gained 1 point and rose from 3 to 4 percent.

Within Pennsylvania nearly all the broilers are produced in an eighteen-county south central region bounded by Huntingdon County on the west, Berks county on the east, Columbia county on the north, and the state border on the south. Between 1983 and 1987, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture data show that Chester, Columbia, Huntingdon, Lancaster, and Lebanon counties increased their share of state production, while Berks, Franklin, Mifflin, and Schuylkill held their shares, and the other nine lost some of their share of production. Between 1986 and 1987 little change in relative shares took place except that Huntingdon doubled its production, while production attributed to the other counties category dropped 22 percent.

For egg production, 1983 and 1987 figures were compared. The Northeast was able to maintain its share of national egg production at 17 percent for 1987, the same as in 1983. The West Coast also had a constant share over the period, with 24 percent of national egg production in both 1983 and 1987. The Southeast lost some of its share, while the Midwest gained. The Southeast was still the highest producing region in 1987, with 30 percent of national production, but that figure is 2 percent lower than it was in 1983. The loss of share of national egg production was caused by a 4 percent production decline in the region and was led by production declines in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Tennessee. The Midwest region increased its share of national production by 2 percent, nearly equalling southeastern production in 1987 with 29 percent. The production share increase was made possible by a 11 percent regional production increase between 1983 and 1987, with the major increases coming in Indiana and Ohio. The percentage increases in production for Indiana and Ohio were 24 and 46 percent respectively.

Within Pennsylvania, the southeastern and south central regions have increased in share of state production between 1983 and 1987. The southeastern region leads with a 61 percent share in 1987, compared to 54 percent in 1983, followed by the south central region with 19 percent and 17 percent in the respective years. The northwest region held its share of production nearly constant at about 1.5 percent of state egg production. While the production share declines for the other regions are fairly small, varying from 1 to 3 percent, some regions have experienced substantial declines in their number of layers. The northeastern region of Pennsylvania has lost 94 percent of its laying flock since 1983 with over 230,000 fewer layers reported in 1987 than in 1986. The west central region has experienced a 40 percent decline in layer numbers since 1983, losing over 300,000 since 1986. The north central, central, and southwestern regions have lost 28, 26, and 20 percent of their flocks since 1983 respectively. All of this regional movement of egg production has taken place as the total flock size for Pennsylvania increased by only 1 percent. At the national level, the smaller regional shifts took place while production increased by 2 percent.

The Midwest, specifically Ohio and Indiana, have increased their share of national egg production at the expense of the southeastern region, and the Southeast has increased its share of broiler and turkey production at the expense of the Northeast, for broilers, and the West Coast, for turkeys. It appears that these shifts are due to the relative strength of individual companies and the stage of production facility updating rather than any major changes in production and marketing cost advantages associated with any one region of the country.

Myers To Manage Pork Producers' Public Affairs

DES MOINES, IA — Peter Myers, until recently USDA deputy secretary of agriculture, has been appointed executive director of Washington, D.C. Public Affairs for the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC). The Council represents America's pork producers on a wide range of national legislative and regulatory issues.

The announcement of Myers appointment was made by Orville K. Sweet, executive vice president and chief executive officer of the Council, and Russ Sanders who will succeed Sweet in that position in July.

Myers, who is expected to assume his new position in early May, will have the responsibility of overall management of NPPC's Washington Affairs, including coordination of relations with key U.S. government agencies and staff. He will report to the Council's chief executive officer.

Doyle Talkington, administrator of NPPC's Washington, C.D. office, will continue to handle day-to-day administrative responsibilities at the office.

"We are extremely fortunate to obtain the services of Peter Myers," said Sweet and Sanders. "His knowledge of key agricultural issues in general, and the needs of pork producers in particular, coupled with his personal credibility on the Washington, D.C. scene, will be a decided plus for the nation's pork producers in the months ahead," they added. "The Council clearly foresees many important future challenges in the areas of the environment, quality assurance and food safety, to name a few. Peter will be an invaluable asset as we deal with these and other public affairs issues in the nation's capital," Sweet and Sanders said.

Myers was appointed deputy secretary of agriculture by President Reagan in 1986. Prior to that, he had served as USDA assistant secretary for Natural Resources and Environment, and as chief of USDA's Soil Conservation Service.

Before his federal service, Myers operated his own row-crop and livestock operation in southeast Missouri. He was active in the Missouri Pork Producers Association at one time, serving a term as vice president of that organization.

White Named To Simmental Youth Post

BOZEMAN, MT. — Tom A. White has been selected as coordinator of youth activities for the American Simmental Association (ASA).

White, a 1986 animal science graduate of Oklahoma State University (OSU), was formerly a sales representative for Iowa Beef Processing, Inc. based in Dakota City, NB. As a student at OSU, he served as president of the Block & Bridle Club and competed intercollegiately with the University's meats and livestock judging teams.

A native of Eaton, Ohio, White was an active member of the American Junior Simmental Association. He served as president of the Ohio Junior Simmental Association, was an eastern region trustee for the AJSA, and was elected to the first vice president's position in 1984. Also in 1984, he was named as a recipient of the prestigious Gold Merit Award, ASA's highest junior honor.

"The ASA youth program was designed with an emphasis on learning through practical application, ultimately to produce well-rounded, motivated leaders in the beef industry," said ASA Executive Vice President Earl B. Peterson.

"Tom White exemplifies that end product and we are very pleased to have one of our own graduates coming in to head up the program," Peterson went on. "Tom's record speaks for itself, and we're confident that our youth program will move forward under his guidance and leadership."

"The ASA junior program is widely recognized as one of the more progressive offered by any beef breed today," said White. "I'm anxious to get involved with ASA once again, and to assist in making it an even more effective program."

Farmers Should Take Care To Reduce Accidents

ITHACA, NY — Agriculture is the nation's most dangerous industry and federal efforts to promote farm safety are inadequate, so New Yorkers must turn to their own resources to halt the carnage, the dean of Cornell's College of Agriculture and Life Sciences said today.

In remarks prepared for the annual meeting of the New York State Rural Health and Safety Council in Syracuse, David L. Call said that the National Safety Council has ranked agriculture among the most dangerous industries for 30 years, with more than 1,600 fatal accidents and 160,000 disabling injuries in 1987.

On New York farms alone, Cornell knows of 94 deaths and estimates that nearly 30,000 injuries occurred between 1985 and 1987, Call said and added two other grim statistics:

• Although children spend little time in farming activities compared to adults, 14 percent of the state's fatalities involve youngsters under 15 years of age.

• Although tractors comprise only 7 percent of New York state's farm accidents, they cause 55 percent of the fatalities.

Call said that, with agriculture in the top tier of dangerous injuries for 30 years, one might expect the federal government to gather data and actively promote farm safety. "Unfortunately," he went on, "that's not happening."

He asserted that no federal agency is responsible for gathering agricultutal safety or economic data and the federal resources are not adequate to deliver the occupational safety education needed to halt the carnage.

"Of the $508 million appropriated [by Congress] in 1988 for occupational safety, New York gets $19,019 for farm safety programs," Call pointed out, adding that a 1988 study showed federal support for mine safety at $244 per worker compared to 30 cents per worker for agriculture even though agriculture is more dangerous than mining.

"It's clear if New York wants improved farm safety, we must define our own needs, coordinate our own activities and deliver our own training to the agricultural community," he said.

Call described the 1987 Rural Health and Safety Council's agreement with Cornell Cooperative Extension to design and deliver preventive farm safety education and cited substantial progress in their first year of cooperation, including:

• A New York farm accident survey that will aid state safety planning efforts and serve as the basis for national database.

• A hazard awareness and risk analysis program linked to the council publication RHSC Manager is aimed at helping 20,000 farm families avoid accidents.

• A "First-On-The-Scene" program that teaches techniques to preserve life immediately after an accident until rescuers arrive.

• Council fact sheets and a videotape to help farmers comply with federal safety regulations.

• Coordinating New York farm safety activities with other organizations with farm safety programs, including Farmedic (an organization that trains emergency medical technicians to perform farm rescues); Cornell Cooperative Extension; and the state's Center for Agricultutal Medicine and Health at Cooperstown.

Call thanked the Legislature and Governor Mario M. Cuomo for establishing the center as "a rural complement to the urban-based occupational health clinic network." Appealing for broad support for agricultural safety programs, he pledged to encourage more state participation in health and safety efforts for agriculture.

"As a member of the Governor's Task Force on Agricultural Employment, Education and Labor, I intend to put safety issues high on the task force's agenda," the Cornell dean said. In addition, he said the Rural Health and Safety Council will examine existing occupational safety programs for new opportunities to include agriculture as a state priority.

Call concluded by urging individuals, educational institutions and the private sector in industries beyond the agricultural sector to recognize that safe agriculture is in everyone's interest and worthy of their support.

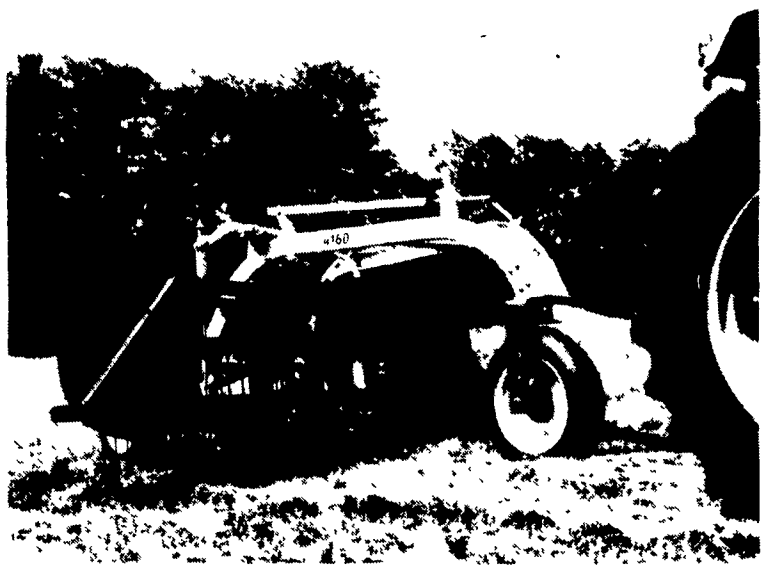
White New Idea Introduces Rake Line



This rake features a hydraulic or ground-driven system, left- or right-hand delivery, and a dual raking system. Available from White New Idea, it has formed steel channels that redistribute the weight across the main frame for positive ground traction and greater stability on hill sides.

COLDWATER, OH — Featuring better performance in all types of hay conditions, the New Idea 4100 Series rakes have been announced by White-New Idea. This new series of rakes in the New Idea hay tool line features a hydraulic or ground-driven system, left-or right-hand delivery and a dual raking system.

New Idea's ground drive rakes are designed with a unique gearbox system. Ease of engagement from working to transport setting, increased basket speed, and no stalling of the basket rotation result from the improved drive system of New Idea ground drive rakes.

With the hydraulic drive model, New Idea varied basket speed to ground speed top get consistent windrow control no matter what the ground speed of the tractor and rake. For gentle tedding or fluffing windrows, the hydraulic drive system speeds up crop drying time.

The 4100 Series have formed steel channels that redistribute the weight across the main frame for positive ground traction and greater stability on hill sides. Each model has a staggered wheel position that redistributes the weight of the basket. This wheel position gives the basket better flotation and more frame stability in tight turns. And each model has a transport and storage position for added safety when transporting.

Every New Idea 4100 Series rake is equipped with a tilt adjustment for quick positioning of the basket. The tilt adjustment allows you to adjust for a wide range of drying conditions such as tightly rolled or loosely fluffed windrows.

Five raking bars provide continuous crop movement and gentle raking action. The raking bars have tooth bar scrapers that prevent trash build-up in some field conditions. And the 4100 Series rakes are available with steel coil teeth or rubber flex-joint teeth.

The dual raking system combines two windrows or swaths at once. The system produces uniform windrows that are ideal for either round or square baling.

The White-New Idea Farm Equipment Division of Allied Products Corporation is a major manufacturer and distributor of three major product lines with over 1500 dealers in North America. The White Farm Equipment line includes tractors, planters, tillage equipment and compact tractors and implements. The New Idea Farm Equipment line includes spreaders, planters, hay tools and self-propelled harvesting equipment. The Ag ONE line includes parts and supplies available to the White and New Idea dealers.

Allied Products Corporation is a diversified manufacturing company organized into three main operating groups: agricultural equipment, transportation/industrial products, and material technology. The company operates 15 manufacturing facilities in the U.S. and numerous distribution facilities in the U.S., Canada and the United Kingdom.

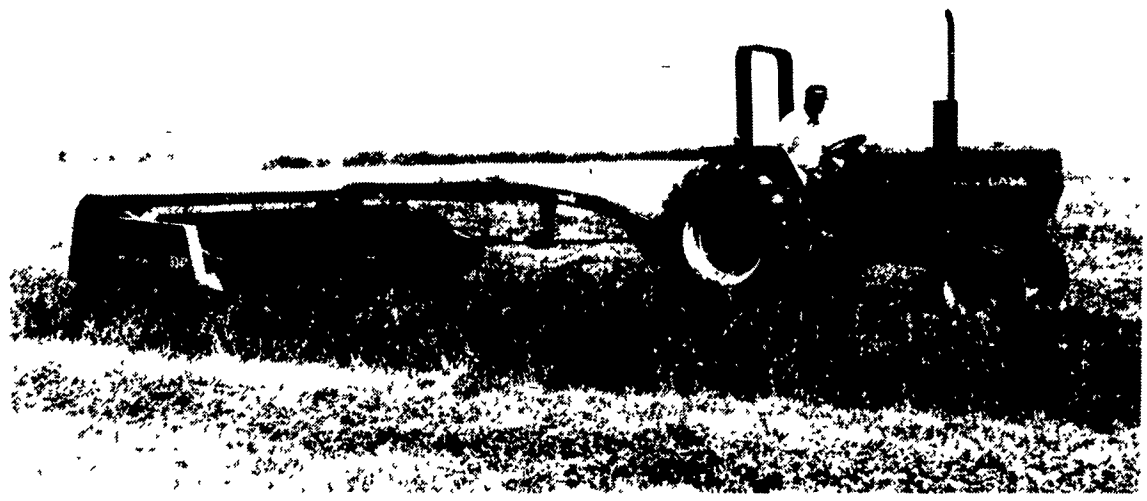
Mower Conditioners Round Out Case Line



The Model 8340 mower conditioner from Case IH features a 9-foot 3-inch cutting width, five-bat reel, 110-inch intermeshing conditioner rolls, and hydraulic tongue positioning. It is one of eight models in the Case mower conditioner line.

RACINE, WISC. — Case IH has introduced two new deluxe mower conditioners, Models 8340 and 8360, designed to provide efficient hay production in a variety of field conditions. The new models round out the Case IH line of eight mower conditioners.

The Case IH Models 8340 and 8360 have several distinct design features that provide improved performance and reliability in the field:

- high-speed, uniform-motion sickle drives for optimum cutting performance and minimum knife head deflection;
- rugged header frames and fully adjustable swath shields that allow a choice of narrow windrows or full-width swaths;
- 110-inch wide, intermeshing conditioner rolls that are available in either rubber-on-steel or ticor (rubber-on-rubber); and
- exceptional header flotation to allow uniform cutting on uneven terrain.

A five-bat reel is standard on both models for even feeding of the conditioner rolls. The rolls are mounted to the header rather than the frame to provide uniform swath and windrow shape.

Deluxe Model 8340

The Model 8340 has a 9-foot 3-inch cutting width, plus features operators expect on deluxe machines. Hydraulic tongue positioning allows the operator to easily steer the machine around field obstacles or change from field to road position from the tractor seat.

A single knife system cuts crops at 1,700 strokes per minute (spm). A unique automatic release linkage on the roll pressure spring assembly permits temporary roll separation, allowing slugs to pass through.

Standard equipment on the Model 8340 includes bolt-on sickle sections, a spare sickle compartment, a toolbox and a crop divider.

Center-pivot Model 8360

The Model 8360 mower conditioner offers a center-pivot design that allows the operator to hydraulically position the header to cut in either direction from any side of the field. .

Hydrostatic header drive reduces the maintenance and maneuverability restrictions common with mechanical drivelines. Dual, opposed-rotation augers gently and evenly distribute the crop across the full width of the conditioner rolls, so swaths and windrows are always the ideal shape.

The Model 8360 features a 12-foot cutting width and a uniform-motion, single-knife system that cuts a 1,670 spm. The swath shield can be adjusted for smooth, 9-foot swaths or narrow, fluffy windrows. Standard equipment also includes a wear plate and center skid shoe. A minimum 60-PTO horsepower tractor is required to operate the Model 8360.

A 20-page, full-color catalog describing the entire Case IH mower conditioner line, including the Models 8340 and 8360 mower conditioners and the new Model 3309 disc mower conditioner, is available from Product Public Relations, Case IH, 700 State St., Racine, WI 53404.

Deere To Market Yetter Weight Transfer System

Through a joint marketing agreement, Deere has approved the Yetter 6700 series toolbar as allied equipment for the Deere 8000 series end wheel drills. The tool bars will be marketed nationally under the Yetter name by Deere dealers.

MOLINE, IL. — Through a non-exclusive joint marketing agreement with Yetter Manufacturing Co., Colchester, Ill., John Deere has approved the Yetter 6700 series Weight Transfer System™ toolbar as allied equipment for John Deere 8000 series and wheel drills for no-till planting of small grains and soybeans.

The toolbars will be marketed nationally under the Yetter name by John Deere dealers.

The Yetter system enables the operator to transfer up to 3600 pounds of tractor weight onto the toolbar for better coulter cutting auction. This makes drilling into residue from a previous crop, and even hard, dry soil an easy job for the 8000 series drill, according to Yetter. Drill tongue height is maintained by a parallel linkage and compensates when the toolbar is raised or lowered, enabling the drill openers to operate with maximum efficiency.

According to Yetter, this combination gives John Deere end wheel drills exceptional no-till or mini-till capability.

In a previous agreement with Yetter, John Deere had approved the Yetter 6600 series coulter cart as allied equipment for John Deere 515 and 520 integral grain drills.

It holds 10 bushels of seed or 750 pounds of fertilizer and will spread seeds as small as clover as well as all mixtures of fertilizer.

Multitude Of Activities Planned For Maryland Sheep, Wool Festival

KEYMAR, MD — If there is one word to describe the people you'll encounter at the 16th annual Maryland Sheep and Wool Festival May 6 and 7 it would be versatile--defined by Webster as having the ability for many aptitudes. "At first glance one might think, says Mary E.F. Streaker, chairman, "that those in the ring showing sheep do only that, but then look a little further and those same persons may have craft booths displaying handmade wool garments". And this applies to men and women alike, for many of the sheep breeders are women and many of the crafts people are men, with talents ranging from spinning, weaving and knitting to fine arts.

Some have raised sheep for years, others started small flocks in order to have wool for their crafts. Among them are teachers, doctors, lawyers, artists, nurses, construction workers, journalists, government employees, shop owners, clergy--to name a few who pursue careers outside the sheep industry.

This year the Festival at the Howard County Fairgrounds, West Friendship, Md., will offer so much that the buildings are overflowing and a huge tent will be erected to house some sheep and events. Nearly 700 sheep will be there, plus more than 200 crafts people. Streaker emphasized that admission and parking are free. The fairgrounds may be reached by taking Exit 80 from I-70, just west of Baltimore. Go south on Rt. 32, then right on Rt. 144 to Fairgrounds Rd.

Three sheep shows have been added--purebred natural colored Romney and purebred white and natural colored Lincolns. The Lincoln shows are national shows. In addition there will be shows for Border Leicester, Columbia, Corriedale, Romney, white wool and natural colored. All these are designated "wool breeds".

Young people are very much in the picture with many contests just for them. And, in one instance, a 4-H club is for the second year teaching all comers how to spin. The West Friendship club last year found eager pupils at their "drop in, learn to spin" workshop. According to leader Peggy Howell the group has held workshops during the year to become better teachers and the event "is in the running for a possible 4-H feature by the Disney studio for the New Mickey Mouse Club television show". They will be teaching from 12:30 until 2 p.m. Sunday.

Five other seminars are slated, beginning at 7 p.m. Friday, May 5, with a sheep flock nutrition session by Dr. Scott Barao of the University of Maryland. Saturday at 1 p.m. Dr. Wendy Freeman, University of Pennsylvania, will discuss sheep health problems at the Pen-Mar Shropshire Sheep Breeders meeting. Dr. Donna Matthews, Luray, Va., will speak at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. Dr. Matthews is a sheep breeder and practices in an area extending from Richmond, Va., to Myersville, Md. Julie Beaulieu, Silver Spring, Md., will demonstrate felting at 11 a.m. Sunday. She creates clothing and sculptural pieces. Creative knitting will be taught by Valentina Devine, Kensington, Md., at 12:30 p.m. Sunday. All are open to the public.

The lamb cooking contest has two divisions, professional and non-professional, with both taking place Sunday. Lamb samples will be made available to the public for tasting both days.

One of the most popular spectator events, the Sheep to Shawl contest, will take place Saturday. Both days festival goers will see Border Collies round up sheep. Feeder lambs will be judged and sold Saturday. Shearing demonstrations will be on-going and shearing competitions will be held. Charlie Swaim, four-time national shearing champion, again will come from Iowa to show how an expert divests the sheep of its wool.

A new Maryland Lamb and Wool Queen and her court of princesses will be chosen Saturday and will begin a year's reign over sheep events in the state.

Fleeces will be judged Saturday and many will be available for sale. This year categories for nine specific breeds have been included. Other fleeces, both white and natural colored, will compete in fine, medium, long and coarse divisions. All the tools of the trade will be offered for sale--not only spinning wheels, looms, dyes, yarns, etc., but supplies and equipment needed by the sheep producer on the farm--also 'how to' books on many subjects.

Sheep judging will go on both days, with an auction of Lincolns Sunday at 3:30 p.m.

Other contests are junior spinning, shepherd's [illegible], skein and garment, fine arts, poster, photography, 4-H and FFA judging and carcass. Entertainment includes a fashion show, folk and square dancers and musicians. Grounds open both days at 9 a.m. Craft buildings close at 7 p.m. Saturday and 6 p.m. Sunday. Further information call 301/845-8744 or 301/321-1344.

Delaware Extension Joins 75th Anniversary Celebration

NEWARK, DE — The National Cooperative Extension System is celebrating the 75th anniversary of the Smith-Lever Act, signed by Congress on May 8, 1914. This act established a nationwide Extension system committed to communicating research-based information from land-grant colleges to the public.

Delaware Cooperative Extension has planned statewide festivities to celebrate the occasion.

On May 8, Delaware Extension will celebrate from 2:45 to 5 p.m. at the University of Delaware's Townsend Hall in Newark. Highlights of the day will include participation in a nationwide 75th Anniversary videoconference and a tree-planting ceremony. Scheduled for 3 p.m., the videoconference will take a look at both the past and the future. Following a 4 p.m. reception, New Castle County 4-H'ers will plant an anniversary tree in the Emily B. Clark Garden.

The same day, Kent County Extension will celebrate with an open house from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at its office in Lochmeath Plaza, 4601 S. Du Pont Highway in Dover. 4-H demonstrations will take place from 3 to 8 p.m.

The Sussex County Extension office, located on Delaware Route 9 at the university's Research and Education Center, will also hold its open house on May 8, from 5 to 7 p.m., with a reception and a tree-planting ceremony by Sussex County 4-H'ers.

All Extension events are open to the public without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, age or national origin.

Throughout May, the Delaware Agriculture Museum in Dover will host a 75th Aniversary exhibit. Produced by the University of Delaware College of Agriculture Sciences' communications office, the exhibit will feature historic photos and a timeline of Extension landmark events from 1914 to present. On May 9, the museum will host an opening reception and a signing of a proclamation recognizing the 75th anniversary of Cooperative Extension. An anniversary tree will be planted by Kent County 4-H'ers on the museum grounds.

All anniversary trees will be donated by the Delaware Association of Nurserymen.

President Announces Advance Deficiency Payments

HARRISBURG — In the first telephone news conference in history between a president and U.S. farm broadcasters, President George Bush announced last week extra federal assistance "to help America's farmers after last summer's drought."

During the broadcast, Bush and Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter covered a wide range of topics affecting American agriculture, including the recent GATT negotiations, the budget compromise, and the 1990 Farm Bill.

Additional advance deficiency payments of 10 percent of the projected deficiency payment rate will be available to eligible producers of wheat, feed grains, rice and upland cotton. This brings available advance payments up to 50 percent for wheat and feed grains, and up to 40 percent for rice and upland cotton.

Bush said the additional payments, estimated to total $850 million, will be issued after May 15 in commodity certificates. Under the 1989 farm program signup, which ended April 14, wheat and feed grain producers were allowed to request 40 percent of their projected deficiency payments; upland cotton and rice producers were allowed to request 30 percent. For these requests, an estimated $3.13 billion in advance payments will be paid in cash. Only those producers who requested advance payments under the 1989 signup are eligible for the additional advance announced today.

Farmer signup was reported brisk across the state. However, state breakdowns of participation will not be available for several weeks said Don Unangst, state executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Brillion

Brillion pioneered the Pulvi-Mulcher and has introduced numerous features over the years that have made this machine one of the most popular secondary tillage tools. Now, with the introduction of the ML and MR Series, Brillion offers a longer, high-clearance frame for better flow of trash through the machine. Another new feature is the non-rotating tooth bar that holds the teeth in a fixed pre-set position that keeps them at the proper angle, regardless of the working depth of 2" to 6". Other features and options are shown on the reverse side. * Contact Brillion Iron Works for details.

The ML Series of Pulvi-Mulchers features the (a) 20", six-spoke ductile iron notched roller wheel, made of material which is two-and-a-half times stronger than gray cast iron roller wheels. The roller wheels are manufactured in Brillion's own modern ductile iron foundry that utilizes a computer-controlled Disamatic molding machine. The frame is also designed to accommodate (b) the 16¼" notched roller wheel or (c) the 16½" Crowfoot roller wheel for the MR Series. The machine may be ordered with either "C" shaped ribbon teeth or "S" spring tines.

BETTER SEEDBEDS AND BIGGER YIELDS

With some types of tillage the soil is loosely packed with many lumps that allow moisture to evaporate quickly through air pockets. Lost moisture reduces speed of germination and impeeds the spread of small feeder roots in their search for nourishment The Brillion Pulvi-Mulcher crushes both surface and buried lumps and converts fall and spring plowing into a clod-free seedbed The firmed, mulched soil locks in moisture, especially at the root level. Soil nutrients become readily available to the young feeder roots, since they can reach out in all directions without struggling against clods. Nutrients then travel through the root system, developing stronger plants, which in turn result in bigger yields.

Dwayne Peifer of Kirkwood was recognized as the outstanding young farmer under 30, and Ed Zug of Peach Bottom was selected as the winner in the over 30 category.

This year's appreciation award was presented to Paul Campbell of Rising Sun, Md. for his contributions and support of the Young Farmer program. Campbell was instrumental in introducing the hybrid corn test plots conducted by the Solanco Chapter. He received an engraved plaque in appreciation for his support.

The following corn awards were presented to winners in the annual corn production contest. A. Dale Herr of Kirkwood produced 167 bushels of shelled corn per acre to win the grain division. Steve Aument of Quarryville was second with 155 bushels and Dwayne Peifer of Kirkwood was third with 150 bushels per acre. Peifer also received the award for the highest grain average for the past three years with 165 bushels.

In the corn silage division, Aument placed first with 25.5 tons per acre of 65 percent moisture corn silage. J. Richard Brenneman of Quarryville was second with 23.4 tons per acre and Larry Aaron also of Quarryville placed third with 22.0 tons. Ed Zug received the trophy for the highest silage average for the past three years with 23.8 tons per acre.

J. Marvin Herr's Holtwood herd of Jerseys took top honors with 13,490 pounds of milk and 671 pounds of fat. His cow was also high in milk production with 23,638 pounds. A cow owned by Larry Aaron topped the butterfat production of the Jersey's with 994 pounds.

Lindenhof Farm of Oxford received the award for the high Guernsey herd with 15,718 pounds of milk and 698 pounds of fat. Lindenhof also had the high cow for milk with 29,071 pounds and the high cow for fat with 1,058 pounds.

Their milk production was up 1,233 pounds and butterfat up 46 pounds over last year's production. Willis and Jim Krantz also received a plaque for their Holstein herd's 46 pound improvement in butterfat production.

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

Toth Appointed Agronomy Project Assistant

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — John D. Toth has been named a project assistant with Penn State's department of agronomy. He is working with Dr. Richard Fox on federally initiated research of the Chesapeake Bay. The study examines the decline of Chesapeake Bay fisheries due to fertilizer runoff from corn farms in Lancaster County.

Toth studies fertilizer management for the project. "Proper fertilizer amounts are hard to estimate," he says, noting that farmers often overfertilize their land. He is currently developing a soil test to help corn farmers pinpoint how much fertilizer their soil needs.

Toth graduated from Nazareth Valley High School in 1975 and received his B.S. in biology from Moravian College in Bethleham, Pa. He has worked with Penn State weed scientist Dr. Nathan Hartwig on lab and field research and was a vegetable grower and greenhouse operator for Rudy's Farm Market in Centre Hall.

Toth's favorite part of the job is the fieldwork. "I was a vegetable grower for eight years, and I like to keep in touch with that," he says. "I like working with the farmers."

Toth lives outside of Centre Hall. A lover of the outdoors, in his spare time he enjoys backpacking, cross-country skiing and birdwatching.

Paul and Marie Kurtz like the togetherness that owning a family store can bring At right, Jacob Kurtz, Paul's dad, stands Jacob sold a plot of ground off his farm for the original school house

Weaver's Hardware Company was founded by Harvey B. Weaver in May of 1964 as a hardware store, bicycle shop and farm machinery repair shop. The location was one mile from the present location in a 600 square foot building on Mr. Weaver's farm. After one year the store moved to its present location, at that time a one room schoolhouse where many local folks went to school (known as Schaeffer School) during the mid 1900's. Today Weaver's has outgrown that one room schoolhouse into many added on buildings that form an unusual arrangement of corridors, asiles, ramps and stairs to nearly 10 times the original size. Our commitment to the public is: If we don't already have in stock what you want we will try to get it for you if it is at all related to our business. We also serve the local industry with a full time salesman and delivery service and the same "we'll get it" commitment. Many local people bring their out-of-town visitors to see our store and the most frequent comment is "if you can't find it here, you can't find it." There are however many things that you need that we cannot help you with but we do stock well over 15,000 items that are needed and used around home, farm and industry. We also have access to more than an additional 20,000 items readily available from our suppliers warehouse with weekly delivery service. If you are willing to wait a little longer for us we can get almost anything you need. And we are willing to do it if possible. Weaver's Hardware today has a stronger commitment to our community today than ever before and we plan to be here whenever you need us.
